Set School Vote May 3

Will Fill 3 Posts On Board

Voters in the Kingston School District Consolidated on May 3 will elect three members of the Board of Education — two for full-term posts and one for an unexpired term.

Registration April 15

At the March meeting Thursday night, the Board of Education set the date for the election, fixed April 15 for the registration of voters and appointed a Board of Registrars.

Terms of Mrs. Edith Case Murphy and Bernard Singer, incumbent members, expire this year. Mrs. Murphy told newsmen after last night's meeting that she will not be a candidate for another term.

Singer said he was undecided, but hinted that he would not seek election for another term.

The one-year of the unexpired term of Francis Stern-Montagny, who resigned a few months ago after moving from the district, also will be filled on election day in May.

Teacher for 45 Years

Mrs. Murphy is completing a five-year term as a school district trustee, and has been a teacher for 45 years, one year in Liberty and 44 in the Kingston School System. Singer is completing a 5-year term.

Mrs. Murphy is incumbent chairman of the personnel committee of the board and a member of the business management committee and the public relations committee. Singer is chairman of the present public relations committee and a member of the building and business management committees.

Registration From 10 to 7

Registration of voters for the May 3 election will take place at the Municipal Auditorium on April 15 between the hours of 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. (EST). Any person who did not register for the preceding general election, or any intervening school district election, or who did register for one of such preceding elections, but at the time of such registration resided in a school election district other than the one in which he presently resides, must personally register on April 15 in order to be entitled to vote at the annual district election in May.

No person shall be entitled to vote at the annual Kingston School District Election whose names does not appear upon the register of the school district prepared for the election.

The Board of Registrars approved at last night's meeting comprises Mrs. Virginia Myers, 408 Foxhall Avenue, and Mrs. Anne Whalen, 250 West Chestnut Street.

Polls for the election in May will be open from 12 noon to 9 p. m. (EDST).

In other business last night the board approved the appointment of non-instructional employes including: Percy Bovee, Edward Kraemer and Frank Mitchell, cleaners; Helen Webber, stenographer at Hurley School; Dorothy Lenahan, Gladys Rice and Hazel Spano, food service helper substitutes in the cafteria; Rosalyn Bryant, seasonal clerical position under Title 1; Helen Duffner, employe in the audo-visual office under

56 Perish, Six Missing In Tokyo Field Crash

TOKYO (AP) — Landing in fog, a giant DC8 jet of the Canadian Pacific Airline caught its wheels in the approach lights at Tokyo International Airport tonight and smashed into a retaining wall.

Police said at least 56 of the 71 persons aboard were killed.

A police tabulation showed six others were missing and presumed dead, leaving nine survivors. Jesse Zousmer, a vice president of the American Broadcasting Co., was among those apparently dead, along with his wife.

The $6-million plane, bound from Hong Kong to Vancouver and South America, carried 62 passengers and a crew of nine, the Canadian Pacific said after a series of conflicting reports about the number aboard.

Flaming Wreckage Scattered

The four-engine plane ripped a 20-yard section from the breakwater wall at the edge of the runway and scattered flaming wreckage more than 1,000 yards down the runway.

Seven survivors were pulled from the plane but one died after being rushed to a hospital, police said. The six survivors included an American named Berdell, 38.

Airport officials said 15 landing lights in Tokyo Bay along the approach to the runway were broken and one wheel was found in the water.

Reports at the scene said at least 30 passengers were hurled into the rear of the plane by the violent impact.

Second Recent Crash

Rescue workers had difficulty penetrating the main part of the fuselage to get at the bodies.

It was the second major air crash at Tokyo's International Airport in a month. Four weeks ago a Japanese Boeing 727 smashed into Tokyo Bay as it was landing. It was the world's worst single plane disaster, with 133 dead.

The Canadian Pacific plane was Flight 402 bound from Hong Kong to Vancouver via Tokyo, then on to Mexico City, Lima, Santiago and Buenos Aires.

One report from an airport worker said he heard two explosions as the plane approached.

It was not clear whether the explosions occurred before or after the jetliner touched down. The worker added that he saw a

Educators Create Two New Administrative Positions

Creation of 2 new administration positions in the Kingston School District Consolidated and the appointment of a chairman of the Secondary English Department-grades 7-12 were approved Thursday night by the Board of Education.

Because the work assigned to Robert J. Markes, associate superintendent for curriculm and instruction in the school system has increased to the extent which makes added assistance necessary, the Board of Education authorized Supt. of Schools W. Wendell Hoover to interview candidates for the position of administrative assistant to Markes and recommend his selection to the Board.

The vote on the resolution was 5-3 with Richard P. Boice, Harold E. Keator Jr., and Bernie Singer voting against the proposal: Voting in favor of the new position were Arthur H. Withall, president; Hubert Hoderath, Ellsworth L. Johnson, Mrs. Edith Case Murphy, and Sam S. Pepper.

The second new post approved

Have Acted on Jail Facilities: Savago

Peter Savago, majority leader of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors (R), New Paltz, today pointed to the recent release from custody of Richard Lawrence Tyte as further evidence of the need for additional jail facilities suitable for the detention of juveniles, female prisoners and chronic indigents.

It has been reported that Richard Lawrence Tyte, a 15 year old Whittier boy, was involved in a homicide in the Veteran area on Oct. 1, 1965, and that since that time he has been in the custody of the Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

Following a determination by County Judge Raymond J. Mino, that Tyte could not be held for trial in County Court under the present indictment, the case of Richard Lawrence Tyte was referred to the Family Court. Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn recently released the boy in the custody of his parents because, while the law permits the retention and custody of a juvenile pending disposition of his case, Ulster County does not have suitable jail facilities for the confinement of a juvenile.

One of First Issues

Additional jail facilities for just such circumstances was one of the first issues to come under the consideration of Savago when he assumed the majority leadership of the Republican Party on the Board of Supervisors. Supervisor Savago, who served on the Sheriff's Committee for five years, believes that additional jail facilities for

Urge Reappraisal To Up City Rate On Equalization

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today said he was told in Albany Thursday at an equalization hearing that reappraisal on a countywide basis is the most effective means of obtaining rate readjustments.

Kingston's rate has been fixed at 36 per cent and the mayor seeks one as high as 45. Before his Albany trip, he had written Mrs. Frank C. Moore, executive director of the New York State Board of Equalization and Assessment citing reasons why the city's rate should be raised.

More Data Needed

He was told at the hearing, which lasted some two hours, that more data would be required in his bid for a higher rate. It was also noted, he said, that only four counties in the state have not had reappraisal and Ulster is one of them.

Walter C. Donnaruma, local real estate consultant, and former Sixth Ward alderman, was with the mayor, who had proposed countywide reappraisal when he first took office.

State equalization rates are set annually by the equalization

Dove Makes New Viet Nam Try

(War Story Page 8)

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new move to put Congress on record against a broadening of the Viet Nam war was launched today as the debate moved into the dollars and cents stage.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., announced he will try to tack a policy rider on the emergency $415-million foreign aid authorization now before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I have drafted an amendment which I think makes clear that members of the Senate who vote to sustain our men and our assistance programs in Viet Nam do not necessarily indicate by such votes that they approve of the policies that

Liaison Plan Will Begin on Wednesday

A Teacher-Board Liaison Plan adopted by the Kingston Board of Education Dec. 7, 1965 for closer liaison and cooperation between the Board and the teaching staff of the Consolidated School Districts, will officially become effective on March 9.

Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of schools, said Thursday night that the first official meeting of teachers and the board will be held next Wednesday, with 24 teachers and school district officials attending.

The first meeting was originally scheduled for Feb. 9, but the session was deferred because of pending court action involving the dispute between the Kingston Teachers' Federation, AFL-CIO and the Board of Education.

The court proceedings have since terminated.

The liaison committee consists of a minimum of one delegate from each school in the district plus additional delegates at a ratio of one delegate for each 30 teachers, elected by secret ballot by members of the professional staff assigned to the respective school, exclusive of principals, vice principals, directors, supervisors and superintendents.

The regular term of office for both the delegates and alternates will be for one year from the date of the election, which was held recently.

Members of the Teachers' Liaison Committee will meet with the Board of Education, superintendent of schools and the associate and assistant superintendents in regular session each month during the 10 months of the regular school year. The first meeting was

Rocks Add $50,000 To Cost of College

Cost for rock removal at the Stone Ridge site of the Ulster Community College will run considerably more than anticipated. When test borings were made it was believed that much of the sub-surface rock was of a shale nature and could be easily moved.

Later when excavation under the site development contract was commenced it was found that much of the rock was of a hard blue nature which could not be moved except by blasting operations. A considerable amount of this rock has already been removed by James J. Berardi, Inc., Kingston contractors, but no definite estimate is available as to the extra cost of this work.

Estimated at $139,000

It was originally anticipated that the cost would be around $139,000 for rock removal at the bid price of $8 a yard. It is now roughly estimated by the engineers that the cost may run from $180,000 to $190,000, or from $40,000 to $50,000 more than first anticipated.

A spokesman for Brinnier and Larios, Kingston engineering firm in charge of the site development work, today stated that much of this additional rock had been encountered when excavations were begun for the sewage disposal beds and sewage lines.

Changes required under Ulster County Health Department reglations also account for some of the additional cost and a requirement by the Ulster County Highway Department that 3,000 to 4,000 feet of sewage line laid along the Cottekill Road

Rites Are Held For 2 Astronauts Killed in Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. astronaut team buried one of its members in Arlington National Cemetery today and moved on to the same last rites for another. Both were killed Monday in a jet plane crash in St. Louis.

Several hundred persons gathered in a gentle rain outside the Ft. Myer, Va., chapel for Navy services or Elliot M. See Jr., 38, a civilian and former Navy pilot.

Four Hours Later

Air Force services for Maj. Charles A. Bassett II, 34, were arranged for the same place four hours later.

The two men in training for the Gemini 9 three-day orbital rendezvous mission they planned to make next May, were killed in an attempted landing at St. Louis. Their plane struck a building at the plant where Gemini spacecraft are manufactured.

At the chapel ground Navy enlisted men carefully transferred the casket containing Sees body from a hearse to a caisson drawn by six horses, each with a rider.

Then, with six fellow astronauts as honorary pallbearers, the cortege of more than 50 automobiles moved slowly through the cemetery to a slope overlooking Washington.

Mississippi Has 57 Dead, Close To 500 Injured

Damage in Millions as Savage Storms Pound 2 States; One Death in Alabama

JACKSON, Miss (AP)—Rescue workers combed sparsely populated rural regions east of Jackson today, looking for more victims of the savage tornadoes which spewed death and destruction in Mississippi.

The Mississippi death toll steadily mounted during the night and stood at 57, the Mississippi Highway Patrol said. One person was reported killed in neighboring Alabama.

Homes, People Gone

Larry Parks of broadcast station WQFT-FM at Forest, in Scott County, said many homes "are just gone . . . and the people in them are missing, too."

In Jackson, the state's largest city and capital, a tornado dealt death and devastation in a suburban shopping center. At least 12 persons were killed.

Nearby, the modern brick Woodville Heights Baptist church looked like it had exploded. Homes across the street were untouched.

A patrol spokesman said 411 were injured in Jackson and rural counties to the east of the capital city.

Congress Hopeful Killed

One of the tornado victims was Joe Bullock, a Democratic candidate for Congress in Mississippi's 4th District. Bullock, recently ousted as director of the state's Agriculture and Industrial Board, was killed instantly, the Highway Patrol said, when the twister blew his car off the road near the Forkville community in Scott County.

Damage was expected to run into the millions from the state's worst natural disaster since a 1942 tornado left 75 dead in central and northwest Mississippi.

"I think we'll find more dead," said Deputy Sheriff Bob Fasano.

Officers also feared more bodies would turn up in Scott County, to the east of Jackson.

The line of tornadoes moved eastward into west-central Alabama during the night. There was one known dead in Alabama and 11 injured.

Rare Blood Brought In

An Air Force Reserve C119 transport flew into Jackson shortly after midnight, bringing two mobile Red Cross disaster trucks and 20 pints of rare blood from Mobile, Ala.

Tornado Is Likened to 1,000 Jets

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — "It sounded like a thousand jets," said one survivor of the death-dealing tornado which struck Mississippi's capital city.

"Like about 50 freight trains on the same track at the same time," was the way another described the fury at dusk Thursday.

Brings Warning

Larry Swales, 17, an employe of a grocery store in the Candlestick Park shopping center which was flattened, said: "Somebody rushed into the store and yelled, "There's a tornado coming."

"There was mass confusion. After it passed, I pulled a dead child from under a car in a yard outside. People were running around screaming.

Howard Polk, owner of the grocery, said he saw a dead woman and a child in a car in the shopping center parking lot.

"Another child was walking away from the car with blood running down his face," said Polk.

Picked Up Car

"When it hit," continued Polk, "I was about three blocks up the street. It picked up my car. When it got back on the ground, it was going back in the direction I had come from.

"I heard an explosion and the Woodville Heights Baptist Church just disintegrated — just poofed. Debris was going everywhere."

Mike Callahan, 19, a University of Southern Mississippi student, watched the tornado from his home one mile from the shopping center.

"You could hear it coming for a long time," he said. "But when I finally saw it, it was just there for a few seconds. When it finally set down, it sounded like about 50 freight trains."

L. M. Luke saved himself by hugging a steel post supporting a building. He said he watched the building collapse and got a gash on his arm.

Saved by Seat Belt

"The only thing that saved me was the seat belt," said Jim Ward, whose car was tossed into the air and dumped upside down in a nearby yard.

Mrs. Claybrne Strickland saw the tornado rush toward her home, then hop over it.

"It sounded like a thousand jets," she said. "My husband said, 'Lie against the wall.' He had been in tornadoes before. My yard is just covered with pieces of tin, sticks, splinters — things like that."

Deputy Sheriff Bob Fasano, in charge of search operations at the shopping center, said he feared there would be additional dead. He pointed to a stand of trees and said, "all the cars in the parking lot were thrown in there."

Fasano said little could be done about searching the trees lawn because heavy rains had made the area swampy and other search operations were using all the manpower.

Bids for Benedictine Point To Need of Extra Finances

Sister Mary Charles, OSB, and Edwin B. Bolz, co-administrators of Benedictine Hospital, announced today that bids for the contemplated building expansion project were opened in New York City Thursday.

The bids were received from seven contractors and all bids were around $2.6 million. In light of the closeness of the bidding and because of the bidding procedure laid down by the Hill-Burton Authority, they will now be completely analyzed to determine the lowest acceptable bidder and the name of that firm will be promptly announced.

The Co-Administrators further said the cost is for construction only, not including equipment, architect fees, testing fees, etc. This indicates that the hospital will have to raise an additional $400,000 - $500-000 to complete the project as planned. Of course, alternates to reduce the scope of the project also will be considered but the co-administrators will do nothing that would compromise good patient care for the expanding population of Ulster County, it was announced.

In light of this the co-administrators appeal to the public to continue to support the Benedictine Hospital building program and if anyone has not as yet contributed to do so, "It was pointed out. It is vital, they stated, that this project be started in order to hold the $750,000 of Federal Hill-Burton funds designated for this project.

8,300 of Area Are Eligible on GI Bill

Approximately 8,300 veterans in New York's 28th Congressional District are potentially eligible for benefits and services under the new GI Bill just signed by President Johnson, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick said today.

The new GI Bill provides education and training programs generally patterned after the highly successful GI Bills of World War II and the Korean Conflict. Rep. Resnick, a member of the House Committee on Veteran Affairs, was a strong supporter of the bill. At the invitation of President Johnson, he attended the bill signing at the White House.

The Congressman pointed out that in the first year alone, over 1,000 veterans are expected to take advantage of the educational benefits, according to statistics from the Veterans Administration. This educational provision is expected to provide the veterans in the district almost $670,000 in direct benefits in that first year.

He said the educational provisions of the new bill go into effect June 1, 1966, giving the veteran ample time to plan his schooling program.

In allition to the educational benefits, the program is expected to provide VA guaranteed loans totaling $1,800,000 to some 115 veterans in the first year.

The veterans covered under this bill are also eligible for hospital benefits, and 1,300 patient days at a cost of $33,000 are expected to be made available to applying veterans in the first year.

All veterans are eligible for educational and guaranteed home loan benefits who were on active

Seven Is Good as Trump Ace

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Today's hand is identical to yeserday's with the exception of two cards. We have transposed the six and seven of hearts in the East and the South hands.

In yesterday's hand the play started with East's queen of spades being allowed to hold the first trick. East returned the nine of spades to his partner's ace and on the third spade lead East discards the ace of diamonds and thereby sets declarer at three no-trump.

With the change of those two cards it is possible for South to make three no trump in spite of that sensational discard. The play is not one that would ever be made in a regular bridge game but anything goes in bridge problems.

If you haven't figured out the winning line of play, here it is:

South wins the third spade lead and plays a club to dummy's jack. Then he leads dummy's ten of hearts and East must cover. Now South takes two more club tricks, winding up in dummy and West is forced to discard.

If West tosses a spade, South can afford to let him in with the jack of diamonds because West will only be able to take one spade trick. So West can't afford to let a spade go.

Of course, West can't discard a diamond. That play will make all South's diamonds good and he will actually make four no-trump so unhappy West must discard the five of hearts.

This allows South to lead the nine of hearts from dummy. If East ducks the nine holds the trick. If East covers. South puts on whichever high heart he still holds. This drops West's eight and South makes his ninth trick with that seven of hearts that we transferred to his hand today.

Bar Unit Raps Divorce Measure

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A committee of the State Bar Association urges the Legislature to expand the grounds for divorce in New York State and calls the current law "unrealistic and inhumane."

The committee announced Thursday that it approved the "general purpose" of legislation proposed by the Joint Legislative Committee on Matrimonial and Family Laws.

The legislative body has recommended four additional grounds for divorce, which now is permitted only on the ground of adultery. The committee has recommended the addition of cruel and inhuman treatment, voluntary separation, homosexual conduct and imprisonment for at least five years.

The legal group, the executive committee of the association's Family Law Section, urged the Legislature to enact "rules of reason which will best serve the interests of the citizens of this state."

Arborio Submits $9,567,380 Bid For Orange Job

John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie submitted a bid of $9,567,380 for construction of Interstate Route 84, Orange County, the State Department of Public Works announced Thursday.

The work extends from just south of Route 17M 4.82 miles to northeast of the Route 17 Expressway in the Town of Wallkill, Orange County, including 8.6 miles of access roads.

Two firms submitted a joint bid of $10,886,797 for construction of part of the Richmond Parkway, a limited-access highway that will run through Staten Island's "Greenbelt area," a chain of parks, camps and other low residential usage land, the Associated Press reported.

The department opened the bids for construction of another section of the disputed parkway on Staten Island, despite a request by New York Mayor John Lindsay for a six-month delay.

The city had asked for a delay in beginning the project to allow consideration of alternate routes that would avoid the park-like Greenbelt section.

Lindsay has not approved the phase on which bids were opened today and has said that he does not approve construction of the first section.

Approved by Wagner

Former Mayor Robert Wagner approved the plans for the first section on Dec. 29, two days before he left office.

Bids for that section were opened Jan. 27. The state has not awarded a contract however, and a spokesman for the department said that a final decision on the award had not been made.

The spokesman said Lindsay could prevent construction of the second phase by refusing to approve the state's plans.

Low bidders today on the controversial parkway were the Gull Contracting Co. Inc., and the Mac Asphalt Co. Inc., both of Flushing. Gull Contracting submitted the low bid on Jan. 27 for the first phase.

In other bids opened today:

Cayuga County — Construction of the Southern Tier Expressway from just west of the Route 17 bridge in Owego 10.6 miles to the Broome County line, including 7.9 miles of access roads, $9,074,371, Perini Corp., Framingham, Mass.

Livingston and Steuben Counties — Construction of the first segment of the Genesee Expressway from Route 21 near Wayland 8.22 miles to Route 36 at Dansville, including 5.24 miles of access roads, $8,472,745, S.J. Groves and Sons Co., North Syracuse.

Nassau County — Reconstruction of the Jericho Turnpike west of the Northern State Parkway 4.02 miles to the Long Island Expressway interchange, $5,129,475, Lizza & Sons Inc., Oyster Bay.

Tompkins County — Widening and resurfacing of Route 96A from Ithaca 5.83 miles to Bald Hill Road at Danby, $1,024,337, Warren Brothers Roads Co., Syracuse.

RAY KORNBREK KNOWS THIS BETTER THAN ANYONE!!

Last year Ray and his family decided to buy a swimming pool. They had long dreamed of having their own pool in their own back yard where they and their friends could spend long, lazy summer hours.

Ray and his wife studied every advertisement, compared all costs, investigated every company and after much consideration decided on a "SKYLARK" pool.

They watched the workmen construct their pool, step-by-step; saw the great skill of the craftsmen, the fine quality of the materials and knew they had made a wise choice. On the day the Kornbreks filled their pool, Ray had reached a decision . . . He had decided to quit his job of 18 years and become a SKYLARK representative.

As an owner of a SKYLARK pool, Ray knew that he could honestly tell other families of the great pleasure they, too, could enjoy if they had a SKYLARK pool; that he could sincerely recommend SKYLARK builders for their competence and integrity.

Mrs. Kornbrek was equally as enthusiastic about Ray's decision and has become a valuable assistant to him in his new work.

AN interesting sidelight to all this is that SKYLARK didn't ask Ray to be a representative for them, Ray asked SKYLARK, and of course they welcomed him eagerly; a satisfied client is the best possible salesman.

SKYLARK is proud to announce that Mr. Ray Kornbrek is now your area representative and will be very glad to show you the way to a life-time of family fun. After all, who knows better than the man who also found a life-time career.

Johnson Seems to Be Caught In Political Bind on Viet

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is caught in the middle of a tough juggling act, with no end in sight, which may do much to explain the quiet tone from the White House these days.

He wants to wage a successful war in Viet Nam, keep public support for his war policy, and at the same time answer critics, mostly Democrats, without splitting his party which must face the voters in November's congressional elections.

Quite a Feat

This will be quite a feat, if his patience holds out. Publicly he has been mild about the criticism. But anyone who knows him can hardly imagine him being mild about it within the privacy of the White House.

In 1964 he led the Democrats to overwhelming control of both houses of Congress. This year's will be the first congressional election since then. The result will show some public reaction to Johnson and his party.

Naturally, he wants the Democrats to come out smelling like a rose. But already there are deep divisions within the party over Johnson's conduct of the war. His critics are more concerned about that than party unity.

He would make the party division even more apparent if he began attacking his critics directly, since most of them are Democrats. There is another side to this coin, of course.

Could Answer Critics

If Johnson went on television, well-publicized in advance to capture the greatest possible audience, with a full explanation of the war, he could answer his critics without naming them and probably win wider popular support.

Instead, he has mostly tried to answer his critics by using top people around him, like Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Other aides close to Johnson have presented the administration's case, too. The result has been less than spectacular. The critics appear unconvinced. And the criticism continues.

Just in case anyone was missing this spectacle of Democrats chewing on Democrats, House Republican leaders this week issued a statement which said in part: The Democratic split is prolonging the war, undermining the morale of the American fighting men, and "encouraging the Communist aggressor." They called on Johnson "to take command of his party."

May Get Worse

Until he does take a stronger hand in dealing with his Democratic critics, instead of letting his aides carry the ball, the division within the party probably will get worse and public opionion get more confused.

For example, Humphrey and McNamara talked to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whose chairman, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, is one of Johnson's most outspoken critics, just as he was after Johnson sent American troops to prevent what he said he feared: A Communist takeover in the Dominican Republic last spring.

After McNamara talked to the committee, Fulbright said he was not satisfied with the secretary's explanations and Sen. Joseph S. Clark, Pennsylvania Democrat, said McNamara was "very unconvincing."

After Humphrey talked to the Fultright group, Fulbright said his own reservations about Johnson's Viet Nam policy had not been removed. And Sen. Frank Church, Idaho Democrat, said Humphrey had just provided a rehash of what he had said before.

Cruiser Topeka Provides Butter, Guns to Troops

By RICHARD MERRON

ABOARD Cruiser Topeka off South Viet Nam (AP) — The venerable U.S. cruiser Topeka provides troops of the 101st Airborne Division with both guns and butter.

For some time now, the Topeka, commissioned in 1943, has been firing barrages from its six-inch naval rifles in support of 101st operations in the Tuy Hoa area. And the sailors' thoughts were with the 101st troops who endure searing heat while wading through rice paddies and climbing steep hills in search of the Viet Cong.

Work Long Hours

Although the Navy men work long hours, they realize that they have it relatively easy compared to the infantrymen. So Rear Adm. D. C. Irvine, commander of cruisers and destroyers in the 7th Fleet, conceived the idea of making his ships floating rest and recreation centers for the foot soldiers.

Daily, 101st helicopters fly enlisted men from combat to the Topeka or the cruiser Canberra.

As Pfc. Aaron Hicks of Albany, Ga., put it: "The ship might seem like an old bucket to those sailors but to us it's heaven.

The soldiers, no matter what their rank, eat in the chief petty officers' mess. As anyone who has spent much time aboard ship knows, the chiefs have a way of coming up with the best.

The soldiers are bearded, dirty and tired when they get off the helicopters.

They are given a friendly greeting by their comrades in the Navy, taken to air-conditioned rooms and to the showers. A shower and clean clothes can be an incredible luxury to a man weary from infantry duty.

Refreshed, the men are given a VIP tour of the ship, fed excellent Navy chow and permitted to buy whatever they want from the ship's store.

Will Find It

"If they want something we don't have in the ship's store, we'll find it for them somewhere," a Navy officer said.

One of the most appreciated aspects of the visit is a night's sleep in a real bed between clean sheets, something that is only a fond memory to infantrymen.

In many cases, Hicks' for instance, this is the first time they have ever had a sea voyage. Most of them flew to Viet Nam from the United States.

Although impressed with the power, ability and comfort of the Navy, airborne pride still shines through.

After 24 hours aboard the ship, a newsman asked Hicks whether he would join the Navy if he had it all to do over again.

"Airborne all the way," he grinned.

GOP Leaders Vow Plan on Transit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republican leaders in the Legislature pledged today to develop a comprehensive plan for transportation, mass transit and highway safety in New York State.

The GOP lawmakers announced that the Legislature would compile information concerning public and private transit and its relationship with such factors as zoning, recreation, industry and conservation.

In a joint statement, Earl W. Brydges, the Senate's majority leader, and Sen. Edward J. Speno, a Republican from Nassau County, said that hearings would be held to sound out ideas on improvements in transportion facilities.

Brydges said that the Legislature's plan would "envision and be guided by foreseeable technological breakthroughs" so that their effect could be estimated and converted to the "best interest" of the state.

The two lawmakers criticized President Johnson's recently announced transportation program because it excluded creation of a "safety car" and was "purposely vague" about other safety features in automobiles.

Speno has been active on a joint legislative committee that is studying the feasibility of building a model safety car. The preliminary plans for such a vehicle have been completed and further studies are under way.

Brydges and Speno praised Johnson's "attempt at a comprehensive approach to transportation and transitt" but said the plan had "built in obstacles."

They noted that the President left the field of rapid transit under the jurisdiction of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Other phases of public and private transportation would remain with present agencies but the agencies would be placed under control of the proposed new federal Transportation Department, the GOP lawmakers said.

Viet Nam Envoy Cites Increased Cong Defections

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — South Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States says Viet Cong defections are increasing because the rank-and-file is "disenchanted with the promises of their leaders."

Vu Van Thai made that statement Thursday night in his speech before 2,000 students and faculty members at Cornell University here.

Vietniks Protest

Outside the lecture hall, about 200 students, led by the leaders of three campus groups opposed to the war in Viet Nam, marched in protest of Vu's appearance.

In turn, the anti-policy demonstrators were picketed by pro-Viet Nam supporters, who carried signs that read, "Escalate," and "Ho Chi Minh is a Fink."

A campus policeman said the demonstrations were orderly and did not appear to create much interest.

Vu said another reason Communists were defecting from the North was his government's determination to create "social justice" in the war-torn Southeast Asian country.

Farming Expanded

Vu said the South Vietnamese government had made land-owners of 227,000 farmers since September and had begun an extensive rural electrification program.

The ambassador's talk was sponsored by the Cornell Forum and the Committee for Support of U.S. Policy in Viet Nam.

Syracuse Airs New $50-Million Face-Lift Job

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A $50-million redevelopment of Clinton Square in the heart of downtown, including an $8-million department store, was announced today by Mayor William F. Walsh.

The key private project will be the construction of a new E. W. Edwards & Sons department store, billed as one of the largest downtown stores to be built in any city in the country since the end of World War II.

Other phases of the project include two new bank buildings, a 250-room hotel and an underground parking garage that would accommodate up to 800 cars.

1966 Feed Grain Program Offers Advance Payment

Growers who take part in the 1966 Feed Grain Program may receive part of the diversion payment in advance. As in 1965, the program is available for corn, grain sorghum and barley.

Up to one-half the total diversion payment may be made in advance, if so requested. The remainder of the diversion payment plus price support payment for those who grow feed grain, offered by the program will be made later in the year.

Advance payments should be of substantial benefit to growers who can use the ready cash during spring planting season.

As in previous years, the program offers participants a payment for diversion of eligible cropland to conserving uses, and price support on normal production of 1966 Feed Grain acreage.

Acreage of corn, grain sorghum, and barley has been combined into one total feed grain base for each farm. A producer may divert one or more of the feed grains in the total base and his diversion payment is made at the per acre rate applying to the grain diverted.

Minimum diversion is 20 per cent of total base but as much as 50 per cent can be diverted where the base is over 25 acres.

Participation is voluntary, but price support payments will be available only to growers who enroll now.

Sign-up will continue at the Ulster County ASC Office, 54 John Street.

Collect Telegrams Going Up 10 Cents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Union collect telegrams will cost an extra dime beginning April 1, says the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC announced the new rate schedule Thursday, which Western Union estimates will add about $2.25 million to its annual income.

The increase will not apply to press messages, the federal agency said.

In addition, telegraph money orders will cost about 10 per cent more, telex messages will go from 75 cents to a dollar and charges for telemeter service, used by industry for automatic measuring by remote control, will rise 10 per cent.

Approves Monroe Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Welfare Department approved a $519,202 grant to the Monroe County, N.Y., Central Rehabilitation Agencies to finance day-care services for 686 mentally retarded persons.

Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., announced approval of the grant Thursday.

Suggest Transit Fare Boost to Ease N.Y. Levies

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature's Republican leaders suggest an increase in New York City's 15 cent transit fare to make Mayor John V. Lindsay's tax proposals more acceptable to state legislators.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea Jr., made that suggestion in a joint statement issued Thursday.

A fare increase might avert the necessity for some of the new or increased taxes proposed by the Republican mayor, they said.

At the same time, however, Joseph Zaretzki, the Senate's Democratic minority leader, was less enthusiastic about the mayor's tax plans.

He noted that Lindsay's proposals would produce more than $800 million in additional revenue for the city and said, "I don't think the population of the City of New York has the economic ability to bear this awesome burden."

The Democrat also said he thought Lindsay was "seeking to build a tremendous surplus that will carry him through the next four years in contour-seat comfort."

Brydges and Duryea promised that the Legislature, even if it means prolonging the session, would give "long and serious consideration" to the mayor's proposals.

The Republicans said, however, that before the Legislature acted on the program, the Council or the city's Democratic comptroller, Mario Procaccino, either would have to endorse it or offer "cold and realistic alternatives."

Zaretzki said if the city's Democratic - controlled council supported the mayor's plans, Democratic legislators would be obliged to vote for it because it is "not the Legislature's function to stand in the way of local government."

The Republicans' position on the transit fare increase reflected discontent among many Upstate legislators who believe they should not have to come to the aid of New York City, while their own constituients pay 25 cents a bus ride.

"It is apparent that a fare increase would go a long way to broadening the acceptance of the city tax program, as well as obviating the need for some of the proposed levies," they said.

OES to Meet Monday; St. Patrick Is Theme

ELLENVILLE — Wawarsing Chapter 253, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet Monday, March 7 at 8 p. m. in the Undercroft of the Episcopal Church, Market Street.

Celebration of St. Patrick's Day and a social hour will follow the meeting, with refreshments appropriate for the occasion.

At the last chapter assembly in February, Worthy Matron Mildred Brady of the Emmanuel Chapter of Saugerties was present as a guest.

Part of that meeting was devoted to a tribute to George Washington. Sister Dorothy Gurgui gave a reading, George Washington, the Father of Our Country. American Flags were displayed on the tables during the refreshment hour.

The OES rummage sale is now in progress in the former Yvonne Beauty Shop, North Main Street, for Thursday and Friday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. It is not too late to bring articles for the sale.

BUSINESS CAREERS

It is worth noting that those in the best position to know today's college generation are usually those least alarmed and most optimistic about where it is heading.

One of them is Lawrence A. Kimpton, former chancellor of the University of Chicago, now a director of Standard Oil of Indiana.

However spooky—if not kooky—some of the present unrest on the nation's campuses may look, says Kimpton, writing in Commerce magazine, "it is at least higher up the intellectual ladder than devouring uncooked goldfish and stealing unoccupied women's underwear."

What does disturb him, however, is that in considering professional channels for their abundant idealism and energy, most of today's undergraduates look upon the prospect of business careers with little enthusiasm.

A recent poll by the national student magazine, Moderator, for instance revealed that nearly half the students asked considered the business world as a "high-pressure, conformitst place where superficial values prevail."

By contrast, careers in government service, teaching, research, social work — "practically any area you can name which is not associated with business"—are taking on a more magic aura. This is best symbolized by the vast appeal of the Peace Corps.

Well and good, and certainly better than the apathy and fatalism which seemed to characterize the post-World War II generation.

But while some intellectuals still foster the antiquated picture of the business corporation as something impersonal and sinister, the fact is, says Kimpton, that in the 20th century it has "created a capitalistic revolution which has transformed life for millions in terms of well-being, comfort and personal freedom."

Corporate management decisions are taking on more demanding dimensions daily, becoming more complex, more far-reaching. From a new lifesaving drug to the application of space technology to consumer products, nearly all advances must be channeled through the corporation.

A successful corporation decision to find and develop a cheap synthetic food, for example, can eventually do more to change the lives of millions around the world than the efforts of armies of government agronomists.

Yet only one in 20 of our high school graduates, he notes has ever had a course in economics. Only one college graduate in four is even exposed to the subject.

American business, Kimpton charges, has badly neglected its responsibility for stating its case.

"Capitalist democracy was not brought into being by shrinking violets, nor is it apt to flourish much longer if its present custodians sit passively back and assume that its revolutionary contributions are self-evident.

"It is high time," he concludes, "that we began communicating to others an understanding of the challenge and the promise of our economic system which happens to be the best instrument yet devised by man for the creation of that better world which our young people so ardently desire."

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WESSIN Y WESSIN IN A COLD CLIMATE

He stood there outside a Yale University lecture hall, running his fingers through a heavy fall of soft, wet snow. It was his first snow, and it seemed to puzzle and bemuse him. Then he went on into the hall where he made the first public speech he has permitted himself since he was hustled against his will by four thousand American soldiers out of the Domican Republic last summer.

Unlike the snow, the situation in the Dominican Republic did not puzzle Brigadier General Elias Wessin y Wessin in the least. Speaking in Spanish, the general said that only a catastrophe could result from holding elections in the Dominican Republic this June. His country, he said, had been too convulsed by hatred, intrique,, and division to abide by fair election rules. The various political parties, Marxist for the most part, have their private armies. The guns distributed in last year's uprising have not been turned in. The labor unions are Communist-infiltrated; the money from the U.S. Treasury to support life in the Dominican Republic has been passing through Communist hands. It would be at least three years, so the general said, before elections could properly be held, and even allowing for this amount of time there would have to be training in the principles of democracy under a provisional government composed of "honest men and anti-Communists" who would build schools, bring in teachers, and let private industry revive.

Wessin y Wessin, who is a four-square character with a level gaze, a well-disciplined sense of humor, and a contempt for beating about the bush, seemed to have some hope that the Organization of American States and the U.S. would not permit the "thirty thousand arms-bearing Domican Communists" (his stated figure) to take over as a result of a premature election. But history seems to be against the doughty general. The United States is so bound up with Vietnam, which is half the world away, that it is in no position to think straight about the Caribbean. Juan Bosch, who had his chance as President of the Dominican Republic and flubbed it through what Peter Nehemkis, a first-rate observer, has called a "delusion of intellectual omnipotence," is again riding high. He is the favorite of many of our State Department and of American intellectuals like Theodore Draper, who think he was framed by those who have tagged him a Communist.

After reading Bosch's own book, "The Unfinished Experiment: Democracy in the Dominican Republic," I wouldn't know what he is. The book is filled with windy categories about "the masses." Bosch loves the "masses" because they don't have "complexes." But the "masses," as a concept, are Marxian. Nobody talks about "masses" unless they propose to use them. Close up, there are no "masses," there are only individuals, some of them capable of clear thinking, some not.

What makes it unlikely that the Dominican problem will be solved in a democratic way is that the country doesn't know how to make use of good men like General Wessin y Wessin. A man of Lebanese derivation, Wessin was never tarred with the brush of "Trujilloism." He got his military training at a Peruvian general staff school. At one point in his younger life Wessin used his position as captain in the air force to prevent the coming of a military dictatorship. The Yale students pressed him on things like the Peace Corps. He probably surprised them by praising young volunteers who go abroad with a mandate to teach. He spoke as bitterly of the wasted Trujillo years as Juan Bosch himself.

In squeezing out men of character like General Wessin the U.S. may think it is clearing the way for the emergence in the Dominican Republic of "middle way" leaders who will be acceptable to everybody. But when the strong and the honest go, who can keep demagogues from sowing the wind? Wessin's Yale analysis of the situation in Dominica would lead one to believe that the drift to the Marxist Left will be registered in the coming election because no strong characters are there to stand against it. Even more foreboding than Wessin's analysis were the remarks of a Cuban friend, Gustavo Marin, who was traveling with the general. The Cuban predicted trouble in Haiti, where, he said, the shaky dictator, "Papa Doc" Duvalier, has a cabinet which contains two Communists.

While we are preoccupied with Vietnam, the whole eastern group of the Antilles may be sliding toward Castroism. And we don't seem able to do a thing to stop it.

Worries About Bust Size Are Usually Misplaced

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am 16 and small-busted. If anything can be done about this, I hope it can be done now, before I'm too old.

A—I get many letters complaining about the size of the breasts. Whether they are too large or too small, 99 per cent are actually within the normal range and would not be considered unusual by anyone except the possessor.

Some girls are slow starters and at 16 do not yet have their full breast development, so I would advise you not to panic, especially since little can be done about it except plastic surgery and that is often unsatisfactory. Techniques and materials for this purpose are being improved but are still far from ideal.

It has been truly said that enlarging the breasts is not a bona fide one-way ticket to social success. Your best course is to work on developing a radiant personality and forget about your alleged handicap. After all, none of us is perfect.

Q—I am a widow, 53. Five years ago my left breast was removed, followed by X-ray treatments. Ever since then my left arm has been swollen and tender. What can be done to make it more comfortable?

A—Your arm has enlarged because, in removing the breast, the lymphatic vessels draining your arm were also removed. Normal drainage is usually re-established after four or five months but may take longer. Make sure your sleeves are loose at all times and avoid wearing rings or bracelets on your left side.

Keep your left arm elevated as much of the time as possible and moving your fingers and wrists vigorously several times a day will aid in establishing normal drainage. Sit beside your dressing table at night, elevate your elbow on a few books, then, keeping your head erect, brush and comb your hair with your left arm. Start slowly and increase the exercises a little each day. Gradually use fewer books for support.

These and other exercises have helped many others like you and are described in "Help Yourself to Recovery," which you can get by writing to the American Cancer Society (521 West 57th Street, New York, N. Y. 10019) or to the local branch in your city.

Q—I have a skin condition that my doctor says is mycosis fungoides. Is it serious? Is there any cure for it?

A—This is a slowly evolving malignant skin disease that is characterized by multiple tumors of widely varied appearance. The cause is unknown. Early treatment with X-ray will sometimes cure it. A recent report states that a radioactive sulfa drug taken by mouth will control this disease.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Back in the Vietnamese war against the French, Ho won popular support from many circles. Many men who were not Communists saw that fight as a war of liberation and fought, they believed, to gain freedom for their country.

So they joined Ho's allegedly "non-Communist" coalition. Several major Viet political parties joined in.

This was their undoing. As time went on, Ho began secretly to weed out those men in the coalition who were not Communists and who refused to become Communists.

Ho's secret police killed considerable numbers of these men. Ho's agents betrayed others to the French intelligence, who then captured or killed them.

Other non-Communists in high positions would suddenly be transferred to posts with low responsibility.

It wasn't a popular vote that decided which men were to be ousted, killed or betrayed. They were removed simply because Ho had the police and the military strength to do it.

Though the non-Communists were in the majority, they were not united. Ho's smaller group was united. By picking these non-Communists off one by one, Ho gained complete control.

THE MILITARY POWER which enabled Ho to take over the coalition came in part from U.S.-supplied arms. More of his strength came from considerable supplies of Japanese weapons, which he acquired at the end of World War II.

Through orders, the origin of which are now unclear, the United States and our Allies allowed these Japanese arms to be taken over by Ho, who then saw to their distribution. They went primarily to the Communists in Ho's coalition.

This gave the Reds a military edge (and thereby a political edge) in the coalition government.

So Ho's "coalition" government in North Viet Nam became a Communist government while pretending to be a national neutral government.

Ho does allow one or two "independent political parties" to "operate." They have tiny memberships. Their leaders are puppets. But these "parties" are used as showpieces when foreigners visit Hanoi. The real non-Communist Vietnamese parties were forced out long ago.

HO'S RECORD IS CONSISTENT. In South Viet Name, his Viet Cong leaders, in their own secret documents, make no bones about why they want a coalition government.

They say that in event of a coalition Saigon government, their organization is set to push through complete control of the government and of the country before the opposition could get organized or elections held.

The coalition posts they seek would give them the governmental power they could not win by arms or free elections.

Advocate Nonpartisan Panel For Selecting U. S. Judges

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Everybody is supposed to respect the judiciary. The courtroom is presumed to be the symbol of fairness and justice. But the kind of judges who are appointed to the Federal bench from time to time has aroused resentment throughout the country.

Even members of Congress are displeased with the present system whereby only a single name is submitted to an American Bar Association Committee for approval or disapproval. Oftentimes the proposed nominee is a man who may be honest and conscientious in every respect but who is not qualified to serve from the standpoint of a knowledge of the law and the principles of justice.

The National Conference of Local Bar Association Presidents a few days ago held a meeting in Chicago at which Ben R. Miller, a member of the board of governors, made a brief speech about the need for improving the method of selecting the Federal judiciary. He argued for a panel of names to be submitted to an American Bar Association Committee so a selection could be made between several individuals rather than to render an opinion on only one name.

Mr. Miller read a number of the headlines from newspapers across the country apropos of the Morrissey appointment a few months ago. Some of these headlines read "Another Unqualified Judge," "Political Prize," "Politics and Judgeship," "Too Much Quid Pro Quo," "Cronyism Again," "Degrading the Judiciary," "Outrageous Appointment" and "Patronage and the Bench." Mr. Miller added:

"Even if the organized bar did not itself recognize a need for a substantial improvement in the method of selection of the Federal judiciary, the very fact that the lay press and public feel so strongly that some drastic change in the method of selection is needed should of itself call for a change. For to regain, or to hold, the confidence of the public in our Federal judiciary, the public must have confidence in the method of their selection.

"The fact is, of course, that the American Bar Association has been on record for years as urging a drastic change in the method of selection of Federal judges, by the creation of an independent, nonpartisan commission of lawyers and laymen to submit a panel of names to the President when vacancies occur or new judgeships are created."

Under the present system, as Mr. Miller pointed out, partisan political activity becomes the primary criterion, particularly with respect to U.S. District Courts. He noted that under both parties the appointments have been almost 100 per cent from the party in power. He declared:

"If the particular Senator entitled to this patronage is of the President's party and not in his disfavor, the selection is by the Senator and generally as a political reward or political favor. Otherwise it is by the party organization of that state.

"Even if he wished to do otherwise the office of the Attorney General could not refuse to agree to this political pressure if that person is considered by even a majority of the members of the ABA Federal judiciary committee to meet minimal qualifications. Senatorial courtesy then requires confirmation of the minimal qualified.

"The able judges in our Federal judiciary, and of course there are many, are there depite the existing system and not because of it."

What is being advocated now is that the selection be made by a nonpartisan, independent commission composed of lawyers, including some retired state and Federal judges and some prominent laymen. They would gather together the names of the best qualified individuals in the district where an appointmnnt is to be made and give a detailed report on each to the President of the United States before appointments are made.

Many of the candidates for judgeships are active in politics and have spent more time in partisan activity than they have in arguing cases that concern fundmental issues of constitutional government. It is surprising, on the other hand, howmany judges have turned out to be fair-minded in their rulings despite the preconceptions that they have developed in politics. But it is the presence of too many who have not lived up to judicial principles that is causing the whole question of selecting competent judges to be the most neglected problem in American government today.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He takes about a dozen pills a day. Maybe more. Some are taken in the morning, like breakfast. The others can tell time too. There are heart pills, ulcer pills, electrolite pills, anti-fluid pills, vitamins, and each has a time. For my father, taking pills has become a days work.

Still, for a gaffer who is in his 83rd year, he manages to shuffle around his room, writing letters, figuring his check balance four times and getting four answers, sitting out on the Florida patio to read the New York and Jersey newspapers and feel the breeze ruffle the white hair.

The important thing for a man his age is that he has retained an interest in the world and all its parts. Also, his sense of humor is intact. In Florida, he is honorary chief of the Hallandale Police Department and he insists on attending Police Benevolent Association meetings and taking part in the discussions among "the young fellows."

Sometimes, when a story is funny, he tells it sadly, with a doleful shake of the head. "Johnny English and I were lieutenants and we were looking for an officer on post on Tonnelle Avenue. We couldn't find him anywhere. We rapped our nightsticks up and down for an hour.

"Then we passed old St. Peter's Cemetery. It had a high wall. I thought I heard a faint voice. We listened. It was the cop. The night was bitter cold and he thought he had heard noises so he found his way into the cemetery, but he couldn't get out.

"I ordered him to climb the wall. It was 11 feet of concrete with spikes on top. He made it pretty well. He got on top and said 'Here I am' and, as he came down on our side, he got the tail of his uniform coat caught in a spike, and he hung up there like a side of beef.

"'What are we going to do with that fellow?' I said to English.

"He figured we should call the emergency squad. But we got him down. Did you ever hear the likes of that? Being caught hung up on a cemetery wall? I could never figure what trouble they were going to get into next."

Now the days are placid. He is reading John Toland's "The Last Hundred Days," in addition to all the newspapers. Now and then, on a sunny afternoon, he rides the golf cart with me and his eyes drink in the pale blue of the sky, the fleecy clouds, the palm trees with the Beatle hair, and he says: "Your mother loved all this. Beautiful. Just beautiful.

A couple of times, he got dressed and went to the Miami Beach fights. "I forgot to tell you," I said, "you're fighting the first four rounder." He smiled firmly and shook his head. "I'll go in the ring," he said, "if you're the man I'm fighting."

His neatness has not diminished. He sleeps in a reclining chair, folds the sheet and blanket, puts them away, cleans up his room, waits for the little girls to leave the bathroom, then hits it for a half hour. He shaves himself, showers sitting on a cane chair, shampoos his hair, and comes out sparkling.

Once he had trouble eating breakfast. Big John said his mouth hurt. He had his upper teeth in upside down and was biting himself to death. During the day, he eats sparingly, but late at night, while the television news is on, he enjoys a salami sandwich. Often, this comes as a great surprise to the old ulcer.

A few weeks ago, the police department held its annual ball. Chief George Emmerich said that it would be a good idea to introduce Big John from the stage. Well, the question was: how to get him up there. Patrolman Lou Grande and Emmerich helped him up. At the top, he looked like a man who has run a mile in his bare feet over broken glass.

The important thing was merely to notice him, permit him to take a graceful bow and step off. The master of ceremonies introduced Bishop and Emmerich at the same time.

The spotlight came on pale blue and bright. The dancers stopped dancing. The diners stopped eating. Emmerich held my father by the arm. The slow bow was executed, and everyone sighed with relief.

My father tottered forward and grabbed the standing microphone by the throat. Then he started a speech. "It's great for me to be here with you fellows," he said. "A real thrill. I've been retired since 1933, before many of you were born." The voice quavered a little, then locked in on tone.

"With the help of God," he shouted, "we'll all be here next year. And the year after that. Good night."

Lots of Snow

It has been estimated that a 10-inch snowfall deposits over 5,000 cubic yards of snow on every mile of the average city street — 1,000 standard truckloads per mile.

Quick Quiz

Q — Which was the first southern state to secede from the Union in the War between the States?

A — South Carolina, Dec. 20, 1860.

Q — Why is the agave called the century plant?

A — The name came from the mistaken idea that the American century plant blooms only once in 100 years. Some kinds flower every year, and others at longer periods, but none blooms so rarely as once in a century.

Q — Who was the first American woman to receive a medical degree?

A — Elizabeth Blackwell, who received her diploma with highest honors in 1849.

Q—What is the meaning of the name Simon?

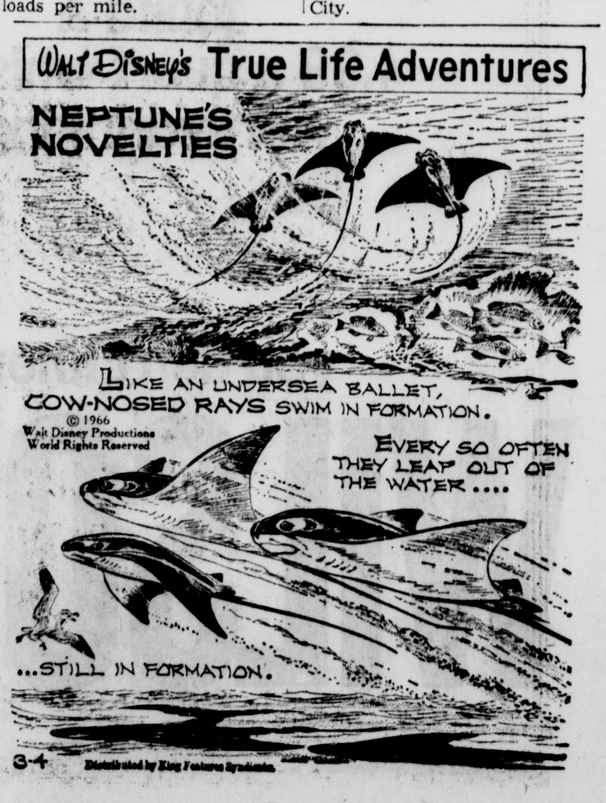

A—It is a Hebrew name meaning "peaceful."

King Gives Advice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carleton J. King, R-N.Y., says Congressmen should provide constructive opposition to promote "national policies that are for all the people."

The legislator from Saratoga Springs, N.Y., made that statement Thursday as he took his place as a member of the House Republican Policy Committee.

King was named to replace John V. Lindsay, who resigned from Congress after his election as mayor of New York City.

Report Notes 900 Million Reached by AP Wire Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Associated Press news reaches more than 900 million people daily, Wes Gallagher, general manager, said today.

In his annual report to Associated Press members, Gallagher pointed out that even with three million words moving on Associated Press wires every 24 hours it is difficult to cope with the ever increasing flood of news.

More Problems, More News

"As the world grows more complex and more sophisticated it develops more problems and more news," Gallagher said.

"This explosion of news places the editor in the same position as the college president who must try to compress and design teaching to produce not only the specialist but the well rounded student as well."

Coverage of the world's news is no easy task, said Gallagher, who noted that AP newsmen undergo physical dangers regularly. Two Associated Press photographers lost their lives this past year in Viet Nam.

Other aspects of the general manager's report include: What The AP is doing to step up its coverage of the expanding war in Viet Nam, how AP photographers are beating the problem of cliche pictures, and the technological advances around the world that are speeding news and pictures to more than 900 million people.

Act to Meet Challenge

Gallagher outlined these actions taken by The AP to meet the challenge of the news explosion:

"A task force of specialists was set up to report, edit and photograph racial developments. These staff men, well-backgrounded in their field, will go into any area where their experience will be helpful for better understanding of the news.

"Another task force of writers was named as a mobile emergency force to be assigned to enterprise projects connected with the spot news.

"Assignment of specialists. The necessity for translating jargon and technical detail into meaningful language for the layman increases. And to the list of science, aerospace, education, religion and other standard areas, we have added in the past year intensified coverage of consumer interests.

Cites New Fields

"New fields of reporting have been entered ranging from explaining how big government works in a democracy to taking a low-brow look at high-brow society from Cannes to Palm Beach."

Among the technical advances:

Creation of a new communications department under Asst. General Manager Dan De Luce as a planning instrument to explore the potentials in the satellite age and to apply new communications developments as rapidly as possible to the world-wide system of The AP.

Automatic Wirephoto, a fully automatic photo process, was introduced and more than 150 members in the United States, Canada and Europe signed up for it.

Circuit to Viet

A 24-hour leased circuit connecting the cable desk in New York with The AP bureau in Saigon vastly improved communications to and from Viet Nam.

A new technical center, staffed by Associated Press engineering and maintenance specialists, was created in St. Louis, Mo., to work with staff technicians in the field and with newspaper production executives.

The two AP photographers killed in Viet Nam were Bernard J. Kolenberg, on leave from the Albany (N.Y.), Times-Union, and Huyn Thanh My, a Vietnamese national who had previously been wounded.

"Their deaths brought to nine the number of Associated Press men killed since the Spanish Civil War. Other correspondents have been killed in the Viet Nam conflict, and other Associated Press men have been wounded there," Gallagher said.

30 Cover Viet

As American forces in Viet Nam were built up, so was the staff of The AP assigned to cover the war. By the end of the year it had grown to 30 newsmen, divided equally between nationals of Viet Nam and Associated Press men assigned from the United States and abroad.

In both news and photo departments, Gallagher said The Associated Press "now has outstanding young men with parallel authority but quite different responsibilities: to direct the day-to-day spot, developing report; to concentrate on enterprise and unusual material. During 1965 the newsphoto staff was reorganized along these lines with Patrick J. McDonald named newsphoto executive and Harold G. Buell appointed director of photography.

"Efforts to get away from routine photo copy also included engaging an outside consultant to point up to Associated Press photographers the ways of avoiding stereotyped pictures in stereotyped situations," he said, "and use of second or third photographers in major news situations assigned specifically to get only the noncliche picture."

Gallagher said The AP had gained 28 newspaper members during 1965 and the Wirephoto network had gained 31 more subscribers. Gains in newspaper membership were the greatest for any year since the end of World War II. The number of new subscribers to Wirephoto represented the largest increase in eight years.

2,780 Broadcasters

Gallagher said The AP had 2,780 broadcasters as members at the end of 1965, a high and a net increase of 57 stations over 1964.

Last year three AP Newsfeatures special projects offered to readers through member newspapers brought sales of more than 145,000 copies.

In the book field, nearly 100,000 copies of the first AP news annual, "The World in 1964," were distributed through AP member newspapers to their readers. Many members also provided copies for schools and libraries.

Gallagher said a new version, "The World in 1965," is being offered to the public through 450 member newspapers in 1966.

Food Firm Denies State Health Charge

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Libby, McNeil and Libby denies a State Health Department charge that its plants in Yates and Ontario counties are dumping sauerkraut wastes into two creeks.

The food firm took that position Thursday at a hearing between the company's attorney and the state agency.

Furthermore, the company said the two plants involved are to be shutdown in July and consolidated in one plant now under construction north of Geneva.

The state agency contends that the two plants are polluting Burrell Creek in the Ontario County Town of Seneca and an unnamed tributary of Kashong Creek in the Yates County Town of Benton.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Many years ago when the Day Line boats used to dock at Kingston Point during the summer, often young boys would dive for money thrown in by those on the dock or on the boat. The Dayliner of course was docked and not moving, and the boys all fine swimmers would watch the money go down and catch it and put it in their mouth. I think I remember this same sport went on at the Ferry Street dock in Rondout for the passnger boats there. This went on at all the Day Line landings, and sometimes the money was the coppers, or sometimes even silver dimes thrown in by sports. It was a trick to throw the coins not always near the swimmers, so all the kids perhaps a dozen would dive for the one coin. No doubt somewhere in these waters are still the Indian pennies or dimes lost by the swimmers.

In Columbus, Ga. the Chattahoochee River is currently being dredged and the sand is being poured on the river bank. It is said some 42 nineteen century coins were found, according to the Coin World, of Feb. 23, 1966. Perhaps when they start to dredge or clean up the Hudson some strange objcts will be brought up including some old coins.

The other day Tom Baggot of 93 Lucas Avenue brought me an interesting item to look over. It is an old large leather day book, perhaps hand-tooled. The dates run from July, 1856 to October, 1858 and the entire book is in perfect condition. I see there were several clerks, for various hand writings are in it, need to say, the script is careful and decorative as though they had lots of time and good schooling. All writing is done on lines and in the proper spaces. The capital letters are fashioned with care and artistic ability.

I understand this day book is from Ulster County. I see it has the name H. B. Briggs, and words "Day Book No. 3." Some of the customers were Peter B. Van Valkenburgh, Robert Lasher, Lewis and Norman Humphry, George Reynoids, Philip Schemerhorn, Caleb Tuttle, Alanzo Chase and A. Lamont and others. This leather book in which records were kept is now some 110 years old and ink although brown can be read very well. I see "1 gal. molasses 56 cents; 1 plug tobacco 31 cents; 1 pair of fine boots $3.75 13 codfish 81 cents; gal. turpentine 88 cents. Putty was 15 cents; 1 hay fork 63 cents; 6 yards calico 88 cents; 2 Palm Leaf hats 50 cents; 1 broom 25 cents; 1 bunch of matches 19 cents; 1 ball wick 6 cents; 2 packages of needles 12 cents; 1 spool thread 5 cents; 1 bottle hair oil 25 cents; 2 pound sugar 10 cents; 10 yards muslin 90 cents; 1 fine comb 15 cents; bottle of alcohol 20 cents; 1 oz. camphor gum 6 cents. They also sold liniment, pills and farm items.

Mr. Baggott also told me they had such a successful outdoor antique show or Flea Market as it is called in the antique world at Dietz Stadium in 1965 for the Ulster County Mental Health Association, that they hope to have aother one June 11 in 1966. The 1965 antique outdoor show, Mr. Baggot told me had 48 antique dealers and exhibitors coming from Ulster County, Kingston and out-of-town. They hope to have even more this year.

For that one day they had 1,595 people pass the gate to see the exhibits. I remember it was a lovely day and only toward the end of the show around 4:15 in the afternoon did some clouds gather and a sprinkle of rain and everyone was so sorry, as they wanted to stay longer. I hope June 11 this summer it will be a nice day.

Probe Reveals Harassing Calls Not Widespread

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigations by all the armed services have failed to turn up evidence of widespread harassing calls to wives and other dependents of U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam.

The Defense Department said today "it has been found that the incidences of such calls are slight."

Among Third Army

Most of these calls have occurred in the 3rd Army area, with a scattering in the New York, Philadelphia, and Ft. Campbell, Ky., areas, the Pentagon said.

The 3rd Army encompasses North Carolina and South Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Georgia. There is a fairly heavy concentration of military installations in this area, with many wives living near military posts while their husbands are overseas.

"Although it has been reported in speculative pieces that this is an organized thing," the Pentagon said, "thus far there is no evidence to support this."

The department was asked about the situation after there were reports from Ft. Bragg, N.C., that many wives of servicemen serving overseas are getting obscene or threatening phone calls.

There have been other reports of such harassment of wives of Navy men who served aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk in the Viet Nam area.

The Pentagon said that all the services, began investigating the situation after a newspaper story appeared on the calls to wives of Kitty Hawk crewmen.

"The most disconcerting type of call has been someone saying that a person in Viet Nam has been killed, wounded, or captured," the Pentagon said.

"The calls primarily fall into the crank category, with the caller unidentified and generally showing no fixed pattern of comments," it added.

Local commanders "have taken necessary action to warn dependents of personnel departing for Viet Nam that this might occur," the Defense Department said.

It took the position that the cases fall into local or national outside the military service.

Screvane Offered Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul R. Screvane, a Democrat and former president of the City Council, has been offered and has rejected a high post in the administration of Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay, the New York Times said today.

Screvane declined to discuss the offer but did not deny one had been made, the Times said.

Screvane, who was a close associate of former Mayor Robert F. Wagner unsuccessfully sought the Democratic nomination to run against Lindsay in the election last November.

The Times story said in part:

The bid to bring a high-ranking Democrat into what Lindsay insists is a fusion administration was confirmed Thursday, even as there were official denials that any plan was afoot to create a third deputy mayor's post to achieve this end.

McQuade Invited To Rejoin Force, Quit This Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Police Chief of Staff William J. McQuade, who submitted his retirement papers earlier this week, has been invited to return by Commissioner Howard R. Leary.

Will Mull Offer

It was the latest development in the controversy swirling around Mayor John V. Lindsay's administration. Critics charge that recent high level personnel shifts within the department reflect interference from City Hall. Leary said he told McQuade that "if he wanted to come back the job was still available for him."

McQuade, a 36-year police veteran, said he would think over Leary's offer. He said he quit at the request of newly-appointed Chief Inspector Sanford D. Garelik, who declined comment.

McQuade said Garelik made the request on Monday during a conservation between the two and that Leary invited him back Tuesday. He also said Garilek did not give him a reason for the request.

The two men who quit with McQuade — former Chief Inspector John F. Shanley and former Chief of Detectives Philip J. Walsh — have strongly criticized Garelik's appointment. Walsh described him as a man "I wouldn't work a minute for."

Third-Ranking Officer

As chief of staff, McQuade was the department's third-ranking officer and was responsible for overseeing general police deployment in the event of major trouble. He handled the task during the Harlem riots, the blackout and the transit strike.

A total of 32 requests for retirement have been submitted since Leary took command 10 days ago. A total of 10 such requests were made during the same period last year.

City Council President Frank D. O'Connor said he would question McQuade, Walsh and Shanley to help him determine whether the council should prote charges of City Hall meddling in police affairs.

Jury Resumes Mossler Case

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Twelve men returned to an 18- by 30-foot jury room today to resume the task of judging blonde Candace Mossler and her nephew in the 1964 slaying of her multi-millionaire husband.

The jurors came back for their first full day of deliberation at the Dade County Circuit Court where Judge George Schulz gave them final instructions Thursday night. His legal charge lasted slightly more than an hour.

The lives of Mrs. Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, rested in the jury's hands, with no words to guide the panel toward a decision. The state did not press for the death penalty, nor did it waive it.

After receiving the seven-weeks-old case at 9:14 p.m. Thursday, the jury deliberated for less than two hours and was sent to a downtown Miami hotel at 11 p.m.

Mrs. Mossler, who gives her age at 40, and Powers, 29, are accused of a premeditated design whereby he bludgeoned Mossler and stabbed him 39 times in a Key Biscayne apartment June 30, 1964. The state claimed aunt and nephew were engaged in an incestuous love affair and coveted the $33 million banking and loan fortune amassed by the 69-year-old victim.

"Somebody's loading the dice against these defendants," said Percy Foreman, towering Texas chief of Powers' defense, in his closing argument. With wide repute as a criminal lawyer, Foreman's fee in this case is $200,000.

"The state attorney is trying them for everything under the sun except murder of Jacques Mossler," Foreman told the jury in a four-hour and 54 minute summation.

Preceding Foreman, State Atty. Richard Gerstein, who heads the prosecution, said Powers was driven to murder his uncle by an insatiable desire for his aunt — "this woman who was the mastermind and manipulator behind the entire scheme."

Met Again Later

Generals Lee and Grant met again after the surrender at Appomattox. Shortly after the war, Lee, passing through Washington, stopped at the White House to pay his respects to President Grant.

Albany Parley Is Set Tuesday on Po'keepsie Road

A meeting is scheduled for Albany Tuesday to consider proposals for an east-west arterial highway system for Poughkeepsie.

J. Burch McMorran, superintendent of the State Department of Public Works, reported the scheduled conference after which Poughkeepsie officials are due to be summoned with the aim of resolving Poughkeepsie's arterial issue.

Among the officials attending Tuesday's parley will be M. Nicholas Sinacori, Poughkeepsie public works district superintendent.

Tuesday's session, according to the announcement, is being held to reconcile views regarding Poughkeepsie's preferred Mill-Church Streets loop arterial highway system and a single six-lane east-west arterial highway.

Meanwhile, the state department's Planning and Programming division is reported to be nearing completion of a computer analysis regarding traffic studies in Poughkeepsie and Dutchess County. The studies were to project traffic volume up to 1985.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

THE NEED FOR SAFER CARS

BABSON PARK, Mass., March 4—Traffic deaths and injuries are climbing steadily. This, despite the fact that auto makers are installing new and more effective safety equipment on their cars and despite the more rigid and frequent state car inspections. The death toll on our highways—which President Johnson has termed our gravest national problem next to Vietnam — poses economic as well as moral and legal questions. . .for which we must find answers.

Problem Is Acute

We are concentrating, in this column, on the topic of safety equipment for cars, because rising public concern about highway deaths and injuries has centered on the question of just how safe the cars themselves are.

The problem is acute, and in the absence of swift, decisive action by agencies of the federal government, state governments are beginning to take more of a hand in probing this field. Only a few weeks ago the Attorney General of Iowa conducted hearings to determine "whether or not traffic fatalities and serious injuries can be sharply reduced" even if the number of accidents is not lowered. The Iowa hearings, held at the State Capitol in Des Moines, centered on car safety equipment or the lack of it.

What the Car Makers Say

Except for an appearance by a spokesman for their Automobile Manufacturers Association, the leading car makers boycotted the Iowa hearings. Their position is that hearings at the state level place too great a burden on the industry. Also, that "there is not and never will be a completely safe auto." They point, further, to an impressive list of safety devices which have become standard equipment on U.S. cars in recent years. For example: The wrap-around windshield, designed to increase visibility; the use of safety glass in windshields, to resist shattering; lowering the center of gravity for car frames; safety locks; self-adjusting brakes; and seat belts.

In addition, car makers contend that in general the public has been slow to purchase "optional" safety devices available for additional fees -- devices which often cost manufacturers large sums to develop and perfect.

An Economic Drag

Probably no one would seriously argue that the car makers have not tried to make cars safer. The record amply supports their efforts. But today's slaughter on the highways has become truly massive; and it has become also a definite drag on the economy; hence, it is certainly in order to ask whether the car makers are trying hard enough to make their cars safer.

Over the past few years, deaths on U. S. highways have risen to a scandalously large total, greater than all our casualties in Vietnam. The rapidly climbing claims against auto casualty insurance companies and the mounting costs of such insurance settlements are appalling. And no computer could accurately assess just how much brainpower and manpower the nation has lost through these traffic deaths and accidents.

More Controls in the Offing

Right now, a congressional investigating subcommittee is studying the relationship between safety equipment on cars and the accident toll. Crash-injury research projects at Cornell and Harvard suggest that safer cars could be made. The industry must, then, take its responsibility more seriously. If the manufacturers are already doing their best, perhaps they should seek the help of outside engineers and researchers.

This is a grave national problem . . . not merely an industry problem. If the auto makers do not solve it, they will be inviting federal and state controls. And such controls — both troublesome and costly—would be bound to eat deep into industry profits.

Search Pressed For Girl, Feared Drowning Victim

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police and volunteers pressed their search today for a 7-year-old girl believed drowned in Onondaga Creek near this city's downtown section.

The search for Geanie Griswald of Syracuse, began Thursday, when a 6 - year - old companion told police that the girl had fallen into the swollen creek while trying to recover a plastic toy rabbit.

Early today, police reported they had found the toy and pieces of a green coat, which they said matched the one worn by the Griswald girl.

The girl's parents live at 220 Gifford St.

Onondaga Creek winds through this city and flows into Onondaga Lake. Police said, however, they believed the girl would be found in the creek, now as deep as five feet because of the recent snow thaw and rainfall.

City records show that in the past 34 years, 23 persons have drowned in the creek.

Open State Alcoholic Treatment Center Soon

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today that a 60 - bed alcoholic treatment center for men will open March 15 at Willard State Hospital to serve an eight-county area in central New York State.

The new facility, at Willard, will serve the counties of Cayuga, Wayne, Seneca, Schuyler, Ontario, Steuben, Tompkins and Yates.

"This new facility, which is the fourth asociated with a state hospital, represents another step in our continuing effort to deal with this massive health problem," the governor said.

Rockefeller said treatment will include psychiatric and occupational therapy.

He noted that he has asked the Legislature to appropriate $1,855,166 to finance the fight against alcoholism in the state. The money, he said, will provide five additional treatment units.

At present, there are two 75-bed units for men, one at Central Islip State Hospital and the other at Rochester. There also is a 60-bed unit for women at Central Islip.

Pilots Unleash Massive Effort On Red Targets

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. pilots resumed attacks on the railway line linking Hanoi with Red China Thursday in one phase of the war's greatest display of air power against Communist targets in North and South Viet Nam.

"It was our maximum effort," a spokesman said today.

40 Miles From Border

The Marines, brought into the battle by helicopter, radioed that they were receiving heavy mortar, automatic and small-arms fire just before darkness. There was no report on casualties.

The air strikes over a 24-hour period ending at dawn included one raid only 40 miles from the Chinese fronter. Some thrusts last year were closer. The railway line runs down the Red River Valley from China. It had been left undisturbed since resumption of the bombing of North Viet Nam Jan. 31 after a 37-day moratorium.

Fly 55 Missions

With the first good weather in more than a week, American planes flew 55 missions—double the usual number — deep into North Viet Nam. For the first time since the 37-day bombing pause ended Jan. 31, they ranged far north of Hanoi.

Air Force jets pounded bridges, trains and other railroad installations on tracks along the Red River line leading to Red China.

One flight went as far as the Lang Bun railroad bridge 120 miles northwest of Hanoi and about 40 miles from the Chinese frontier, the spokesman said There was no assessment of damage.

But other Air Force planes, he said, knocked out a bridge 110 miles northwest of Hanoi and another 85 miles from the capital on the same rail line, and cut the tracks and damaged cars 100 miles northwest of the city.

The Air Force flew a total of 30 missions. Navy planes flew 25. A mission usually involves more than one plane. The spokesman declined to reveal the number of individual sorties flown in the North but said they were twice the usual figure.

The pilots reported antiaircraft fire but there was no announcement on any planes lost in the North. In the South, Viet Cong guns brought down a Marine F4 Phantom south of Chu Lai. The pilot, 1st Lt. T. P. Keenan, and his radar officer, Capt. C. R. Fairchild, ejected over the South China Sea and were rescued by aircraft from the Marine base at Chu Lai.

Planes from the three American services flew an unusually high total of 501 combat sorties against targets in the South from Thursday until dawn today, the spokesman said.

Forward air controllers reported 370 buildings destroyed, 350 damaged, 10 sampans sunk and 10 fuel or ammunition dumps blown up.

A subsequent flight of six Air Force F100 Super Sabres at noon caught about 100 Viet Cong in a rice field after they fired on a spotter plane, a spokesman said. The jets killed 26 and pulveized seven bilengs, he said.

Press Comment Is Favorable to N.Y. Tax Moves

NEW YORK (AP) — Editorial reaction was favorable today to Mayor John V. Lindsay's proposals for new and increased city taxes in three metropolitan area newspapers which commented on them.

The New York Times called Lindsay's program "essentially inescapable, if this city is to reestablish its good credit standing and serve the people in adequate response to need." But the paper warned the mayor would "win no popularity contests" with it.

"A realistic program of remedy," was how the Herald Tribune termed it. "There is no solution but taxation," it said, and it called the personal and corporate income taxes "unavoidable."

The suburban Long Island Press and Long Island Star Journal, which ran the same editorial, called the program "good civic medicine. None of us may like it but we must swallow it unless someone offers a better prescription."

The New York Daily News and two large suburban papers, Newsday on Long Island and the White Plains Reporter-Dispatch in Westchester County, had no comment.

Floor Area Damaged In Downtown Fire

Another downtown fire, said to be incendiary, damaged a floor area in a vacant house at 194 Hasbrouck Avenue Thursday.

Firemen found rags burning on a basement floor and reported a small area damage. The blaze was doused with pressurized water.

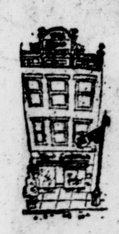

Units from Central and Cornell stations, the Wicks, Union and Cordts companies answered a call at 5:46 p. m. with Capt. Robert L. Maines in charge.

A call at 7:35 p. m. was for a fire in rubbish on Clifton near Flatbush Avenue and ont at 7:57 p. m. was for meat burning in a pan in the basement apartment of Edward Buley, 88 Hasbrouck Avenue.

Several fires of suspected incendiary origin were reported in recent weeks especially in downtown's urban renewal area where many houses are vacant. Chief James M. Brett reported 35 fires in 1965 beileved to have been deliberately set.

Only two South American countries have no seacoast — Bolivia and Paraguay.

Another Booked On Charges of Gambling Here

Two defendants booked this week on gambling charges and others arrested last month are part of an alleged "single operation," which has been under probe for some time, it was noted today.

Booked Thursday night on two charges dealing with bookmaking and one of keeping a gambling establishment was Wallace James Dunn, 40, of 4 Tietjen Avenue. He was arrested by detectives Charles McCullough and Albert Hutton near that address.

Dunn pleaded guilty before City Judge Hubert A. Richter today to keeping a place and bookmaking, and is due for sentencing March 11.

George Carpouzis, 32, of 37 John Street, arrested Wednesday on a bookmaking charge, pleaded guilty Thursday and is also due for sentencing March 11.

They are under $500 bail each. Sentence of the two was postponed to permit time for presentencing investigation.

Booked in February on similar charges were Gerald V. Pezzello, 39, and Inez Pezzello, 38, of 15 Madison Avenue and Fred J. Stevens, 65, of Roscoe. Their cases are pending in county court.

Police said the alleged bookmaking in each case involved bets on horse races.

Fear More . . .

Jackson, the state's largest city with a quarter of a million people, was centered around the Candlestick Park shopping center at the southwest edge of the city. The Highway Patrol said 12 persons were killed in the shopping center.

Supermarket Flattened

One wall of a supermarket and a service station wall were all that remained standing in the center.

Prisoners from the Jackson and Hinds County jails worked alongside teen-agers, searching for bodies and survivors in the rubble.

Bulldozers and construction equipment, owned by the county, were rushed to the area and used to shove aside the tangled debris.

W.W. Ragan, State Civil Defense director, said damage to the shopping center "is in excess of a million dollars."

Power Station Demolished

A power substation in southwest Jackson was demolished. Much of the city was temporarily thrown into darkness and the lights were out for seven hours in the central business section.

Traffic lights were out because of the power failure and rush hour traffic became snarled. Some people became hysterical.

Boy Scouts were pressed into service to help direct traffic, freeing policemen for rescue work.

Report Some Looting

Looting was reported in some damaged areas and also in some sections without lights, but police said "it was kept to a minimum and stopped about as quick as it began."

Acting Gov. Carroll Gartin ordered the state's National Guard on standby alert and some guardsmen were used to patrol stricken areas. Gartin, the state's lieutenant governor, functioned as chief executive because Gov. Paul B. Johnson was out of Mississippi.

The first twister from the squall line which moved from Louisiana into Mississippi and on to Alabama was reported at Newellton, La. It damaged few houses but left no injuries.

Boiling, Black Clouds

Other funnels stabbed out of boiling, black clouds near Greenwood, Miss., leaving a few smashed homes and uprooted trees, but no injuries.

Then the shopping center at Jackson was flattened and the tornadoes skipped across Jackson, dropping down into neighboring Rankin County.

In Rankin's industrial area, the Knox glass works, Continental Can Co. plant and Jackson Tile Co. plant were wrecked.

A 12-year-old boy was killed in Rankin County when the whirling winds plucked him from a bicycle and slammed him against a fence.

Peels Off Brick

The Air National Guard Armory in Rankin County was hit, with bricks peeled off the walls by the force of the twister. One training plane was swept into the air, then smashed on the ground.

The twisters later slammed into Scott and Leake Counties before barreling into Alabama.

The Highway Patrol said about 20 of the dead were in the immediate Jackson area, the rest in Rankin, Scott and Leake Counties.

The worst tornado this century in Mississippi was in the northeast section around Tupelo in 1936. That tornado claimed 216 lives.

Thirteen years ago, 38 persons were killed by a twister which smashed into historic Vicksburg on the Mississippi River.

Albany M-W Fire

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —About 150 employes were driven out of the large Montgomery Ward and Co. department store in suburban Menands today by a fire that broke out in the store's mail order room.

No one was reported injured in the brief blaze. Extensive water and smoke damage was reported in the mail order room and in the shipping room below it.

The loss was not estimated.

Hopeful of Early Malden Park Action

Ulster County Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson said today he is hopeful the State Conservation Department will soon take some positive action towards the development of the proposed state recreational facility in the Town of Saugerties.

The facility, to be known as the "Bristol Recreational Area," is a 73-acre site along the Hudson River at Malden just north of the Village of Saugerties to be developed into a bathing beach, picnic area, and boat-launching site.

The bulk of the proposed park land was donated to the state by Terry Staples of Malden-on-Hudson, and last year the state completed acquisition of a few additional parcels of land needed for proper access to the area.

Assemblyman Wilson said he has been assured by the Conservation Department that a contract will be let shortly for an aerial survey of the site, and when the survey is completed, which should be sometime later this month, a series of topographical maps will be prepared from which definite plans for actual development of the recreation area can be made. Assemblyman Wilson added that while no funds have been allocated in the state budget for the coming fiscal year to develop either the beach or the picnic area, there are general funds for the construction of boat-launching facilities throughout the state.

Wilson said that he will make every possible effort to have some of those funds allocated for the "Bristol Recreation Area." The Ulster County Assemblyman also indicated there is a good possibility that funds for the beach and picnic area will then be requested by the Conservation Department in their 1966-67 budget.

Assemblyman Wilson went on to say there will be a $200 million dollar bond issue for recreational development on the ballot this November, and if the measure is approved by the voters, funds will then be definitely available to complete all of the proposed facilities at the state park in the Town of Saugerties.

Wilson said the new bond issue is the follow-up to the $100 million dollars which was approved by the residents of the state to acquire potential land for state park use.

Assemblyman Wilson said when the "Bristol Recreation Area" in Saugerties is completed it will not only be the first state park in Ulster County, but it will also be the only state beach located along the Hudson River.

Dove Makes New

have involved us in hostilities in Southeast Asia.," McGovern said in a Senate speech prepared for delivery.

The Senate, with concern not only for the troops in Viet Nam but also for the taxpayers at home, takes up the tax bill President Johnson requested to raise $6 billion to help pay the costs of the war.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, still the seething center for the debate, goes behind closed doors to start voting on an emergency $415-million request for foreign-aid funds for Viet Nam and also Laos, Thailand and the Latin American trouble spot, the Dominican Republic.

The committee used the bill as the launching pad for its Viet Nam policy that included a closed session Thursday with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Despite McNamara's almost legendary skill for mustering facts and figures in an argument, he failed to budge Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

Rocks Add . . .

be placed at lower level in anticipation of the reconstruction of Cottekill Road has also contributed to the cost because of additional rock excavation.

Plans for constructing the shorter access road to the college from the public highway, was at first anticipated but on authority of the board of supervisors the longer route is first to be constructed and this has added to the immediate cost of construction through need for additional removal of rock, it was stated.

Apparently more rock than anticipated after test borings were made at the parking sites, is another factor in increasing the removal cost.

Study Was Made

In an endeavor to eliminate as much of the additional cost for rock removal as possible, a study was made of a change in location of the sewage disposal area but it was found a change order plan would be excessive in cost, the spokesman for the engineering firm said. A change in the location of the disposal area, it was anticipated would be more costly than the present rock excavation.

Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of Ulster Community College, was out of town and unavailable for comment on the matter.

It was reported that after the sewage is treated, filtered through sand beds and the effulent is pumped away, it will travel by pipe some 3,000 to 4,000 feet along Cottekill Road to a flowing stream in which it will be carried away. This pipe line will be laid at a lower level than originally anticipated due to new grades on Cottekill Road when that road is reconstructed.

Driver Sentenced

Gerald O'Mara, 23, of 200 Tremper Avenue, booked recently for driving while intoxicated and on two other charges was sentenced today in city court. He was fined $50 plus revocation of his license for driving while intoxicated, paid $10 for a one-way street violation, and a fine of $10 for failure to note change of address was suspended.

the Federal Work-Study program; Mary Lyons, teacher aide at Emma Wygant School, and Sandra Stanley, school monitor at Lake Katrine School.

Resignations and self-terminations were accepted with regret from Vija Clark and Madaline Dempsey, food service helpers; Mary Grehl, school monitor; Leo Volk and Charles Whitaker, cleaners at Hurley School

Changes in status were approved by the board for Barbara Benton and Gertrude Schwarz from food service helpers to school monitors at Port Ewen School; Marion Demskie and Elsie Dykes food service helpers from hourly rate to Step 1, effective March 1, and Florence Orr, food service helper to cook, to replace Eleanor White.

Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of schools, was authorized to employ Miss Edna F. Merritt, a retired teacher as a substitute teacher.

A request from Charles Marable, cleaner at the Hurley School, for leave of absence, without pay, due to illness for the period of Feb. 21 through April 4, was approved on recommendation of Dr. Hoover. The Board also approved a request from Raymond Schatzel, general mechanic, to extend his leave of absence without pay for another 30 days starting Feb. 15. Schatzel is currently on a leave of absence without pay, approved by the Board at the February meeting.

children, and other relatives and friends, were seated under a canopy for the simple graveside services.

Peter B. Vanderholf of Houston, Tex., a Christian Science lay reader, conducted the ceremony.

At the end there was a rifle salute, and the flag that had draped the coffin was handed to Mrs. See. Then the funeral party moved off through the rain.

The graves of the two astronauts are close together, and only about 100 yards from that of Capt. Theodore C. Freeman, an astronaut killed in a jet trainer crash at Ellington Air Force Base, Tex., Oct. 31, 1963.

12 Were Bearers

Seventeen astronauts, a group of officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the widows and children of See and Bassett arrived Thursday night for the separate graveside services. Twelve astronauts were to be pall bearers.

The flag-draped casket of See, a former Navy pilot, was to be borne from the Ft. Myer Chapel at 10 a.m. EST to the grave three-fourths of a mile away on a caisson drawn by seven matched horses. A Navy band was to play as the processional moved through the cemetery.

Four hours later, a hearse was to carry Bassett's flag-draped casket from the chapel in a similar processional led by the Air Force band.

After graveside rites, seven military men each were to fire three volleys in the traditional 21-gun salute, followed by the sounding of taps.

Navy tradition prescribes use of a caisson, while the Air Force has no such tradition, a cemetery spokesman said.

The astronauts' graves are about 100 yards from that of Capt. Theodore C. Freeman, an astronaut who died Oct. 31, 1964, when his plane crashed in Texas. There have been no fatalities in this country's 11 space flights.

A Christian Science lay reader, Peter B. Vanderhold of Houston, Tex., was to conduct final rites for See, assisted by a Navy chaplain.

William Hague Dies; New Paltz Zoning Backer

William Grant Hague II of 19 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, died Thursday in Benedictine Hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Oradell, N. J. and was the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. William Grant Hague. He was a realtor and investor.

At the present time, he was owner of the Hague Realty Company dealing mainly with investment properties. Although he was semi-retired he helped the local administration in setting up proper zoning regulations for the future development of New Paltz and was most responsible for bringing new industries to the community.

Against adverse conditions existing in the town and village, he continued to extend every effort to bring triple "A" stores to the New Paltz area. Recently, he was responsible in obtaining the proper locations for the new branch of the First National Bank of Highland, the Friehofer Bakery outlet, and the new Agway building.

During the Eisenhower administration, his real estate activities were concentrated along the eastern seaboard, with offices in Boston, White Plains and Washington, D. C.

Mr. Hague is survived by his wife, the former Mildred Radley; a son, William G. Hague II and a sister, Muriel Hague of New York City.

Private services will be conducted at Pine Funeral Home Inc., New Paltz Sunday 2 p. m. with burial at the convenience of the family at New Paltz Rural Cemetery.

fireball erupt from the landing area but could give no details because of the heavy fog.

The plane slid beyond the runway and hit a retaining wall near Tokyo Bay.

Tail Severely Ripped

The tail section was severely ripped.

Fog that has sworled around the Tokyo area for two days cut visibility to about 1,000 yards, airport officials said. A slight drizzle also dampened the runway.

The top part of the big jet was completely burned away. Officials said the position of the plane made it appear it had spun around violently as it touched down.

It was believed possible that the spinning jet hit the breakwater retaining wall near the bay tail first, thus throwing the passengers into the rear of the fuselage.

Ewe Ogden, Far East sales manager for Canadian Pacific Airlines, said the jet was demolished.

May Have Caught in Lights

He said one survivor, an American woman, told him it was apparent "as soon as the wheels of the plane touched the ground that something was wrong."

The woman declined to disclose her name.

A Maritime Safety Agency official said it was believed possible the jet caught its wheels on the landing lights in its approach.

A police spokesman said when the plane was about one mile from the airstrip, it lost altitude and the control tower ordered it to come up. The plane did not answer and continued to make its approach.

Plattekill Man Arrested

Accused of assaulting his wife with a chair, Carmelo Casiano, 36, Box 141, Plattekill, was arrested Thursday night by Highland state police on a second degree assault charge. Casiano was arraigned before Justice of the Peace James F. Palen, and was ordered held in $250 bail pending a hearing on Saturday at 2 p. m. Casiano gave his occupation as a truck driver.

Stewart, Schafer Submit Annual Reports for YMCA

Among the reports submitted during the annual meeting of Kingston YMCA this week included those of Ralph H. Stewart, president, who was re-elected and Louis H. Schafer, executive secretary.

Schafer, after 23 years of service with the local Y, retired officially Dec. 31 but remained on the job until his successor, Robert D. Stubbs, took over the post March 1.

The annual reports follow:

President's Report

This past year, 1965 has been both gratifying, and at times, saddening during my tenure of office as president of the Kingston Young Men's Christian Association. The gratifications came about in many forms, which I will later spell out in the context of this message. At this point I would like to reflect, for a moment, on the sad part of my term in office, Lou Schafer's retirement as general secretary of the Kingston Y.M.C.A. has certainly saddened many hearts, both in the younger group and in the many adults in our community that have been associated with our Y.M.C.A. over the past many years. During my first year as President, I have learned to respect "Lou" for his many attributes. In my opinion, Lou Schafer's integrity is above reproach, and has been since his inception on this earth. On behalf of the members of our Board of Directors and Board of Trustees, I wish to extend to "Lou" and his charming wife, many happy and healthful years of retirement.

The year 1965 has been an eventful year for the Kingston YMCA. For example, our Day Camp has served more youth during the 1965 season than any previous year to date. We have also realized the completion of our new Women's Health Club, thereby providing another needed service to our fast growing community. I believe our greatest achievement during 1965 was the decision of the Board of Directors to forge ahead with our approved plans for a Capital Funds Campaign. Our first major step in laying out the foundation for such a goal was to contract Ketchum Inc., a professional fund raising organization, to make a feasibility udy in order to ascertain the potential financial backing which could be expected from our community for such a drive. This study has since been completed, and we are presently planning our course of action for the cultivation period which will take place during 1966.

I feel we have accomplished much during the year 1965, and in my opinion, these accomplishments were successfully concluded only thru the talents, the fine cooperation, and int-nse interest shown by the various members of our Board of Directors. There are still many problems facing the Kingston Y.M.C.A. in the immediate future. One of these problems is the approval of our proposed Capital Funds Campaign for a new building by such advisory groups as the Ulster County Community Chest Board of Directors, and the more recently organized, Citizen's Survey Committee. I am optomistic enough to feel, that these problems are not insurmountable, and that in the not too distant future, we will realize a Y. M. C. A building commensurate with the fine community in which we reside.

Secretary's Report

The Young Men's Christian Association just completed a Century of Progress in continuous service to the people of Kingston and the surrounding area. The YMCA is a symbol in Kingston and has demonstrated that it can carry a far better character building program during the second century. Women and girls with the family program should be promoted, thereby reaching double or even triple the amount of people than it did in the past.

The Board of Directors with many assists from the trustees are always looking ahead for the enlargement of program that will reach into the entire county. The people in the township surrounding Kingston are hungry for program activity, that only the YMCA can promote.

A new YMCA structure, regardless of size, might call for an enlarged staff, with time being scheduled for extension work outside the city. The YMCA program with its multiplicity of program activities can be most effective and far reaching in neighborhood programs using church recreation rooms, school gymnasiums and other meeting places. The programs could be promoted for adults (men and women) children (boys and girls) and be most effective and creative in spirit, mind and body.

Favors Year-Round Basis

The YMCA Camp in Shokan should be used on a year-round basis. There should be winter and spring activities, as well as the summer vacation camp period. This would comprise activities like skating, tobogganing, sledding and other outdoor activities promoted for Y members, groups and family program. A lodge in or near the junior camp similar to the "Schafer" Lodge but enclosed with a fireplace for warmth. It would also be a place for fellowship groups in a healthy and friendly atmosphere. A snack bar might be a special feature. The open area on the west side of camp should be leveled and constructed into a play area. More small buildings should be added and the bathing area and sand beach enlarged. Camp can be made one of the most outstanding features on a year round set up in the entire YMCA program.

The Ladies Health Club with the special feature of the Sauna Bath is bringing in new members in leaps and bounds. There are two to three calls daily with people looking for information concerning the privileges. Good publicity and added program should make the second year for women and girls the No. One program in the YMCA. Mixed programs in recreation and social activities should be provided in the swimming pool, gymnasium and parties in the upper gym and recreational rooms and lounge. Ladies will soon become members of the Board of Directors and should instigate these mixed programs. Schedules of informal events are just as well attended as formal programs. A set program should be set up for all events.

I have enjoyed 23 years of work and pleasure in the Kingston Young Men's Christian Association. As physical director and camp director for 10 years, it was gratifying to see the program grow. The physical and camp committee gave me a free hand in developing both programs. In the gym I promoted activities according to interest and as the facilities would allow. The camp committee gave me the go ahead sign. DeWitt Lake was rented as a camp site as it was the only available spot for a Day Camp in the immediate area. The camp area was doubled in 1947 and the campers were divided into a junior and senior camp. It was then that the real growth started. Many Board members and Trustees gave material to develop camp program. Others dug into their pocketbooks and gave generously, that I might purchase camp equipment to enlarge the activities. These men were most anxious to see the gym program and the Day Camp grow and I tried my best to show them that it could be done. In late 1953, I was asked to take over the executive secretary's duties and again I hope that I measured up to the expectation of the Board.

I sincerely hope that on retiring at the end of 1965, that the Board of Directors and Trustees will continue to push for a new building and make the proper additions to camp, so that the YMCA program will continue to serve people in its second century of existence. The YMCA and its purpose is a force that will carry people forward in their desire to gain fellowship, physical fitness and spiritual guidance so they can carry on for the future. Character cannot be measured, but I feel sure that all the men, boys, women and girls that made use of the YMCA facilities and its camp program under my guidance will possibly say: "It was the YMCA program and its dedicated staff that gave me many of the insights on life that I have today." As a character building institution the YMCA rates as No. 1 in my opinion. Many boys and girls that attend camp during the first ten years of my 23 in Kingston are now outstanding adults in the community and I personally feel that I am a part of them. I could go on, but it would only be flattery. I feel sure that the many people that have had YMCA connections during my tenure would know exactly what I would have to say.

I would be amiss if I did not mention the testimonial banquet given me on Dec. 9, 1965. On numerous occasions, I received various tributes, but the Kingston YMCA testimonal night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel topped everything as the highlight of my career. Mrs. Schafer and myself enjoyed the evening very much and we will never forget it. I feel that the directors and trustees have thanked me in more ways than one. I, as well as my wife, Una, want to thank all for the 23 years we have been associated with the Kingston Young Men's Christian Association. The work sometimes was difficult, but it was a pleasure to serve the Y, its members and the people of Kingston, because of the fine cooperation that I was given.

Dutchess Man Held

A 46-year-old Dutchess County pilot was arrested Thursday night on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated after his car rammed into a rock ledge on Route 44-55 at the west approach to the Mid-Hudson Bridge. Highland troopers said Clifford Cawley, Wildwood Manor, Wappingers Falls, was treated at Vassar Hospital for lacerations of the head. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis DiStasi, Town of Lloyd, Cawley was later released on $100 bail pending hearing.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—A continued stock market rally broke up into irregularity early this afternoon.

The strong technical rebound of Thursday still had some power left in early trading but it began to fade toward the end of the first hour and dwindled thereafter.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon (EST) was off 1.11 at 935.24 after showing a gain of 3.23 at 10:30 a.m.

Electronics, aerospace issues, office equipments, chemicals and rails were among the early gainers.

Some of the fast-stepping volume leaders of Thursday were on the upbeat again but ran out of gas quickly.

As trading slackened the list was a hodge-podge of gains and losses running mostly from fractions to 1 or 2 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 350.9 with industrials up .5, rails up .2 and utilities up .3.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a minimal loss of .01 at 89.46.

Educators . . .

last night was Title 1 administrator and by resolution on recommendation of Dr. Hoover, the appointment of Ronald A. Le Blanc, coordinator of pupil personnel services in the school system, to assume that post, was approved by unanimous vote.

The salary of Title 1 administrator was fixed at $10,000 a year.

The resolution noted that federal laws have made available to local school districts certain funds for special projects, and that detail work in coordination of these projects has developed into a major task.

At the February meeting the Board of Education approved by a 7-1 vote three project proposals for the education of children from low income families in the school district. The projects will be financed by the Federal Government under Title 1 of the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965.

Cost $183,000

The estimated cost of the three projects, fully reimbursable by the Federal Government is about $183,000.

Since the February meeting of the school board, the State Department of Education has approved the three local projcts, which were forwarded to the Federal Government for approval and allotment of the funds.

One project approved here under Title 1 is the Extension of the Present Practical Crafts Program, Donald O. Anderson, principal of Myron J. Michael Junior High School, chairman.

Another project approved at the February meeting provides for an increase in staff personnel within the pupil personnel services to provide for expanded programs of compensatory education for the disadvantaged youth. The third project is designed for the extension of the present practical crafts program, a multi-media project, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Frieda L. Dingee, principal of School 7 and Mrs. Marion Gregory, elementary supervisor.

Tobin Is Chairman

James E. Tobin, assistant to the superintendent of schools for pupil personnel services, is chairman of the project to increase staff personnel to provide for expanded programs of compensatory education for the disadvantaged youths.

The multi-media center would be set up in School 4 after renovations and other improvements are made to include a soundproof area for hearing tests.

The objective of the multimedia center project, it was noted by school officials, is to establish a multi-media center that would (1) diagnose disadvantaged pupils who appear to be functioning significantly below their ability and/or are potential dropouts, (2) prescribe a remedial or corrective program, (3) implement the program, (4) train teachers to more effectively teach disadvantaged children through observing and participating at the multi-media center.

On recommendation of Dr. Hoover, the board appointed Victor A. Mahoney chairman of the Secondary English Department, grades 7-12, with a salary differential. He will succeed Miss Martha Barnett, who has submitted her statement of retirement effective June 30. Mahoney will take over the post on Sept. 1.

Action Deferred

Action on a resolution to increase the professional staff to meet the enlarged enrollment in Kingston schools, was deferred.

The Board voted to enter into contract with the Mid-Hudson Libraries Board for the purchase of books and the processing of the books for next year. The processing project will not exceed $5,000.

Dr. Hoover reminded the board members that the April meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 5 instead of on the regular meeting night, Thursday, April 7, because of Holy Thursday. That meeting will be called at 8:30 p. m., following an executive session of the board scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

The board voted a $50 membership in the Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress program, which was highly recommended by Dr. Hoover.

Boice Receives Lafayette Honor

The traditional rural-urban meeting of Kingston Rotary Club was held Wednesday in the Hurley Reformed Church. This year a special feature was a ceremony honoring Pratt Boice, a rural-urban leader. He was nominated for this distinction by the Kingston Kiwanis Club and by the Lafayette Legacy Circle. He was tapped for honors by the Lafayette Baton. This leads to his name being indexed on the National Lafayette list.

The ceremony was under the chairman of the Lafayette Baton Committee. He was assisted by Captain Charles L. Lockwood, Jr. and Captain John V. Kemble, Jr. who served as flag wardens. Lafayette named the National Guard. George Schwab of Kerhonkson served as chaplin and Ray A. Elmendorf, who served in France during World War I, was the seneschal in the display of the baton. Clifford Henze, who represented the Kingston Kiwanis Club, brought a tribute to Lafayette. Herbert L. Wells, president of the Boiceville Reunion Association, was a special guest in recognition of the fact the reunion group celebrated the birthday of Lafayette on Labor Day when Pratt Boice made the address.

Rotarian Harry Beatty was general chairman of the event and Dr. Clement Angstrom provided lively humor as master of ceremonies.

Past President William E. Rylance gave an address on the history of Kingston Rotary Club, which this year marks its 50th anniversary. This is the 61st anniversary of Rotary International.

County Agricultural Agent William Palmer presented a colored slide review of a hunting trip on an island in Canada.

Mr. Boice was given an ovation when he gave an expression of appreciation for the citation.

Note Payments

Under the education and training sections, monthly payments for full time training are —

$100 for veterans without dependants.

$125 for veterans with one dependent.

$150 for veterans with more than one dependent.

Veterans eligible can receive up to 36 months of schooling or training on the basis of one month for each month spent in uniform.

The veteran must complete his program of education within eight years after discharge.

The Congressman hailed the President's action and praised the meritorious way Congress acted in this urgent matter.

He noted the GI home loan provisions of the bill would increase activity in building and real estate activity throughout the country.

No Formula Change

The formula for eligibility of the veteran to participate in the GI home loan program is the same as that already in existence; that is, 10 years from the date of discharge, plus one year for each three months served. Entitlement shall not continue beyond 20 years, nor shall it expire before 10 years. Guaranteed or insured loan ceilings remain at $7,500.

Medical and hospital care is available on the same basis as for wartime veterans. Other benefits include burial benefits, employment assistance, and veterans' preference in federal employment.

Urge Reappraisal

board for each of the cities, towns and villages. They are the ratio between the assessed value of local real property and its actual, or full value, as determined by the state.

When market values rise in a community, but assessments do not, the rates drop. Lower rates usually mean an increased share of school taxes and a lesser portion of state aid.

Note Neighboring Action

Action toward reappraisal and preparation of tax maps was advanced last month in Dutchess County, and Putnam County's Board of Supervisors approved a re-evaluation program estimated to cost $144,500. Cost of the Dutchess County program was fixed at $200,000 and it has been estimated that one in Ulster County would be near that figure.

Putnam County's reappraisal is to be done by the J. M. Cleminshaw Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, and is due to be completed by 1968.

Ex-Newsman Dies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - A former Rochester newspaper — man, John G. Corey, died Thursday in Northside Hospital after a long illness.

Corey, who was 73, at one time served as sports editor of the defunct Rochester Post — Express and of the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle. He recently published a tri-weekly local news magazine.

He lived at 300 Alexander Road.

Have Acted . . .

such circumstances are necessary and has urged the board to study the matter immediately and take affirmative action this year.

Contrary to information disseminated by a local broadcaster in a March 3 editorial of the air, that "as of now not one move has been made by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors to provide such facilities," this matter is the subject of intense study by the Board of Supervisors and moves have been made to remedy this situation, the Paltz supervisor said.

Offered Feb. 10 Resolution

Savaga points out that he offered a resolution at the Feb. 10 meeting of the Board of Supervisors, calling for the Building Committee and Sheriff's Committee of the Board of Supervisors to immediately study this problem and report back to the full board its recommendations and findings at the earliest time possible. "This resolution was unanimously passed by the board at its February 10 meeting, and since that time contacts have been made with federal and state agencies in an attempt to explore the possibility of securing any available federal or state aid in erecting such facilities in the county," he added.

Supervisor Savago also points out that the county presently owns 40 acres of land in the Golden Hill area, where the Tuberculosis Hospital is located, and the committees intend to conduct on-site inspections as soon as the snow has melted and the weather conditions permit.

Supervisor Savago, by his actions, is the first one to admit that the present jail facilities in Ulster County leave room for improvement. However, Savago points out that we live in an orderly society and must proceed in an orderly fashion if the taxpayers are to receive maximum return in service for their tax dollars.

Savago said that: "Erroneous and unsubstantiated statements contribute little to effectively improving conditions in our County. They do, however, create false impressions among the general public and make progress more difficult, he said.

"I, as Majority Leader, will continue to work for progress and the programs I think necessary, but I will do so in an orderly and systematic fashion, according to the laws which protect the general public's safety and our tax dollars, and not allow my emotions to run roughshod over my mind.

"With reference to the statement in the same editorial that the Ulster County Bar Association should advocate the establishment of a county financed juvenile detention center, I would like to point out that the Ulster County Bar Association has gone on record with the Board of Supervisors advocating the securing of such facilities, and that both Family Court Judge, Hugh R. Elwyn and County Court Judge Mino, also have advocated such action.

Will Advise Public

"As soon as further information is available from State and Federal agencies with respect to available matching funds, and the on-site inspection of the Golden Hill property has been completed, the public will be advised of the findings and recommendations of the Committees involved."

Supervisor Savago also pointed out that if any concerned citizen has constructive criticism or alternate suggestions, he, as Majority Leader, would be very happy to sit down and review them, and recommend them to the Board if they have merit.

Speculation Shouldn't Be Confused With Growth

Q—"Each year we feel the pressure of higher living costs With no assurance of my income keeping up with this pressure, it seems to us that a partial answer to our problem is an investment in a growth stock. I am 45; have seven children; $80,000 of life insurance; $13,000 savings; some General Motors and General Electric. I am thinking seriously of General Instrument for my purpose. What do you think?" W. M.

A—I congratulate you on a good insurance program for your fine family. General Instrument is a well-managed company, in my opinion, but its stock is a speculation rather than a growth issue. Because the company—among other things — makes components for color TV, I beleave it is a pretty good speculation at this time. I doubt very much, however, if this is the right stock for you. Buy a little if you wish with the clear understanding that you are undertaking some risk.

For your major objective, I advise you to buy Marshall Field & Co., one of our best retail merchandising enterprises, with a long record of earnings, dividends and price expansion.

Q—"I recently received eight shares of American Telephone as a Bar Mitzvah present. It has since gone down steadily in price, because of the proposed rate investigation. What do you think will happen to this stock and should I switch to another stock for faster growth?" M. F.

A—I do not believe that anything very much further will happen as regards Telephone stock. The shares at present yield over 3½ per cent and this return should allow them to hold near current levels. On the other hand, you are a very young man and I don't beileve you will see much forward action in Telephone for some time to come.

In your position, I would switch Telephone into fewer shares of Bristol-Myers, which has had a remarkable record as a merchandiser of drugs and toiletries.

Commuters Show Mixed Reaction To Lindsay Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Commuters rolled into Manhattan today with mixed reactions to Mayor John V. Lindsay's plan to tax their personal income even though they are not residents of the city.

Arriving on the Long Island Rail Road, they expressed both opposition and understanding.

John Leavy, a stockbroker of Floral Park, said "It's the only thing left for him to do."

A Valley Stream commuter, Richard Rung, said, "I suggest that the city try off-tract betting or raise the transit fares as a solution to their problem." However, Rung said if the tax proposal goes through, "that's just one of the prices we have to pay."

A Babylon commuter, James McDonnell, a programmer for an insurance company, said:

"I'm against it. I have my own taxes to pay to the county of Suffolk and to the village and they are a lot higher than people in the city think."

He suggested a tightening of the welfare expenditures as a method of easing the city's plight.

Joseph Baylon, of Oceanside, said, "I don't care for it." But, he added, the mayor "made a good case for himself and for what he needs. However, it is now Albany's decision."

A sampling of New Jersey commuters arriving at the Port Authority bus terminal turned up only opponents.

"It stinks," said Sam Esposito of Ridgefield. "It is awful. We should be exempt."

Bernard Hegarty said, "I feel it is becoming too much of a burden to continue working in the city."

Hegarty, of Bricktown, like others from New Jersey, cited the nonresident New York State income tax which New Jersey commuters pay. He said another levy would be just too much.

Leonard Nason, of Bergenfield, said, "It may make me go to Jersey to work. I know a lot of others who feel the same way." Nason, who works in the financial district, summed up his reaction:

"Its horrible."

Norman R. Cohen of Nutley said, "I think the whole thing is wrong in principle: Taxation without representation. That's the way the whole thing started in this country."

Cohen, who works for a chemical firm, said "we're paying for welfare in New York City, but the commuter doesn't benefit."

Outrage to Annoyance

At Grand Centeral Terminal, commuters' expressions ranged from outrage to resigned annoyance at the proposed tax.

One White Plains resident, Lawrence Kessler, an office manager, called the tax a "shame. No one seems to realize that the average out-of-towner is already overburned with commutation costs, school taxes and other expenses. It's true we make our living in this city but this on top of the sales tax is too much."

Another commuter, Robert Bender, a clerk, of Rye, N.Y., said the proposal was a "bitter pill no matter how they flavor it," and asked: "How much can they squeeze out of a guy?" He said the subway fares should be raised to ease the taxpayers' burden.

Anthony Johnson of Elmsford said the new tax imposition could drive people from the city. He said he might himself start looking for a job in his home town as an auto mechanic.

Critical of Wagner

One commuter spoke in favor of the tax criticized the administration of former Mayor Robert F. Wagner. He was Joseph McKible of Yonkers, a salesman.

"I don't see why the commuter shouldn't pay his share," he said. "We use a lot of the services of the city and I for one am willing to pay for what we get." He blamed "wagner's lax administration for letting the city run into the ground."

Kingston; improper explanation of their true purpose and mechanics.

"Every citizen of our city must realize that it does require additional revenue. I am proposing a committee to assist the mayor and Common Council in instituting complete investigations of all possible means toward increasing city income.

"I suggest that this committee be composed of the mayor, alderman-at-large, council majority and minority leaders, chairman of the finance committee, city treasurer and assessor and former city mayors. At present this would include Conrad Heiselman; Eugene B. Carey, William F. Edelumth, Oscar V. Newkirk, Frederick H. Stang, Edwin F. Radel and John J. Schwenk.

"It could also include representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, banking instutions, real estate board and others. It is suggested that this be a permanent committee. Perhaps some small allocation of funds would be required to assist this group in its functions, and the Common Council could provide same.

To Make Council Move

"The committee would set up a long-range study of the city's tax problems and all other matters relative to the possibility of increasing the tax base and equalizing the tax burden. It would report periodically to the mayor and the Common Council with complete, comprehensive studies concerning proposed taxation."

Naccarato said he would present a resolution to the Common Council and mayor asking for such a committee as soon as possible.

The alderman was elected last month to replace John Machione (R) 12th Ward, as council minority leader, but Alderman-at-Large Francis Koenig, based his opinion on legal advice and precedent, ruled that Machione, because he had been elected for two years, was still minority leader. Naccarato is taking legal action to settle the issue.

Matters for discussion at meetings may include: Board of Education Policy; administrative rules and regulations; working conditions of the teachers; the addition or deletion of educational programs; any condition in the schools affecting two or more teachers, if not covered by the official grievance procedure and by mutual greement of the board and committee, any other matter of interest to either party.

The meetings are to be chaired by the president of the Board of Education and are to provide for free and open discussion by all who are entitled to attend. In keeping with its legal authority and duties, all decisions are to be made by the Board of Education.

UCCC Will Host State Educational Meeting; Will Accent Marketing and Retailing Here

Raymond T. Hubbard, assistant professor of business and retailing at Ulster County Community College, announced today that the local college has been selected to host the annual spring conference of the Marketing and Retailing Educator Association of New York State. Mr. Hubbard is president of this statewide association of Marketing and Retailing Educators. He described the association as an organization interested in promoting marketing and retailing programs, evaluating and improving existing programs, and strengthening instructional practices through identification with modern, realistic procedures.

The association was formed in 1963 with an educational membership of 14 two year colleges, and has now grown to a membership of 30 public and private two year colleges. Mr. Hubbard was elected president of the association at the 1965 spring conference and is to be credited with bringing the conference to Kingston for its 1966 meeting.

Professor Neil N. Whitehurst, chairman of the division of business at the local college, has been deeply involved in the development of the Marketing and Retailing Program at UCCC. He has given strong support to the new professional association and in commenting concerning the coming conference, said:

"We are pleased to have been chosen as the host college for this important spring conference. The meeting will provide an opportunity for our faculty to work closely with the representatives of other colleges. Of course, we also believe that Kingston is an ideal city in which to hold such a conference since it is readily accessible geographically and retailing and marketing play such a vital role in the economy of our city."

The association conference will be the second major statewide conference to be hosted by the local community college. In April, 1964, during the first year of college operation, the New York State Association of Junior Colleges met at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston. Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of the college, today said:

"We are very glad to have our college play this important role in statewide professional activities. It not only brings attention to Kingston, and to our college, but I believe that it is further testimony of the general leadership which UCCC, although very young, is taking in the educational field. I know that under Mr. Hubbard's leadership, the spring conference of the Association of Marketing and Retailing Educators will be an outstanding success. We are pleased to be able to make this modest contribution to higher education."

ANNOUNCING ANNIVERSARY AT A WEDDING RECEPTION

Q: My husband and I will be married 25 years this coming June and our daughter is planning to be married on our same wedding day. My husband and I have been looking forward to our silver wedding anniversary for some time and don't want it to go by without some recognition. Would it be proper to combine both events? If so, how can this be done?

A: This is not at all unsual, but I don't think anything should be said about it ahead of time because it would take away from your daughter's wedding. At the wedding reception, someone could propose a toast to you and your husband and you could also have a small wedding cake decorated in silver in front of your place at table.

Who Provides Transportation?

Q: My girl friend and I disagree on the following matter and would like you to settle it. We both attend a girls' academy. When we invite boys to go to our school dances, who is supposed to provide the transportation? I say that since the boys are our guests, we should provide the transportation. My friend says the boys always provide it. Will you please tell us who is right?

A: Your friend is right. The girls pay for the tickets but the boys provide the transportation to and from the dance.

Present for Friends Moving Away

Q: My husband and I received an invitation to a cocktail party that is being given for friends of ours who are moving to another part of the country. I would like to know if this calls for a gift?

A: No gift is necessary.

Film for Pack 19

The monthly meeting of Pack 19 was held Saturday evening at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home on Delaware Avenue. Opening ceremony was conducted by Den 3 under the direction of Mrs. Ralff. A large birthday cake decorated in the blue and gold of Cub Scouting with a Cub's hat as the theme and 33 candles to celebrate the 33rd birthday of Cubbing was lighted. Dessert was served to all cubs, parents and guests preceding the meeting.

The following awards were presented by Cubmaster Ted Barten: Bobcat pin to Jeffrey Dymond and Louis Themistocles; Wolf badge to Douglas Lawson; Bear badge with gold and silver arrows to Kim Anderson; 2 Silver arrows to Paul Barten; Denner stripes to Kim Anderson and assistant Denner stripes to Paul Barten of Den 2; one year perfect attendance bar and service pin to Mrs. Irene Smith, Den Mother of Den 4, and Paul Barten; two year perfect attendance bar and service pin to Raymond Glass.

Cubmaster Barten greeted the parents of two new cubs, Mr. and Mrs. Dymond and Mr. and Mrs. Themistocles. Announcements regarding the sale of tickets and the Pack's presentation in the Scout Spectacular to be held March 19 were made.

A film entitled, Beyond the Tooth of Time, was shown to the group and enjoyed by all. This film is the narrated story of the Scout Ranch at Philmont, N. M.

The Closing ceremony was conducted by Den 2 under the direction of Mrs. Waters.

Pack 66 Dinner

In honor of Scouting Month Cub Pack 66 held its annual Blue and Gold dinner at West Hurley Elementary School Thursday night. The event was well attended by 48 Cubs, their fathers, Den Mothers and guests.

Girl Scout Cadets of Troop 173, Glenford served the meal. Past Cubmaster Guenther Zoefeld saluted the Cubs and the pack for continuing good work prior to the main address by District Scout Commissioner Harold Harrison. He reminded all present of the contribution to cubbing made by the participation of Den Mothers, and reviewed the personal characteristics of Abraham Lincoln and their similarity with the Scout Law. This reflected the monthly theme, Strong for America.

Awards chairman William Wakefield made the following presentations: Robert Carle—Wolf Badge, 1 year pin, and Bear book; David Carlen—silver arrow point and denner bars; David Conroe— 2 year pin; Michael Gray—silver arrow point; Craig Henneman—assistant denner bars; Larry Lamb—one year pin; Brad Leonard—Bear badge, gold arrow point and silver arrow point; Vincent Majewski—assistant denner bars; Gabriel Sotille—denner bars. Mark Gibbs was inducted into the Pack, awarded his Bobcat pin and given a Wolf book.

Shakespeare Unit At Saratoga Spa Beginning May 10th

In response to the tremendous demand from educators in the tri-city area, the National Shakespeare Company will present Macbeth, Hamlet and As You Like It in a three week festival at the Saratoga Spa Summer Theatre beginning May 10. After performing at individual schools in the Lansingbergh, Bethlehem Central, Guilderland, Hoosick Falls, Amsterdam, Greenwich, Ravena - Coeymans and Saranac Lake areas last year, the directors of the company polled the tri-city schools regarding their desire for a spring festival to which they could bring their students. The response was overwhelmingly positive, and with the cooperation of the Saratoga Park Combring the national touring company to Saratoga Spa in a program of afternoon and evening performances designed to accomodate both students and adults.

Their appearance here will mark the end of 32 weeks of performances which have taken the highly acclaimed company through major cities and small hamlets from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border, playing from one to six performances at each stop. At the end of the three weeks at Saratoga, the company tentatively plans to move to Baltimore, New Orleans and Little Rock to stage similar festivals.

The most widely traveled professional Shakespearean troupe in the country, the National Shakespeare Company has performed for over a quarter of a million people this year alone. The plaudits, as reflected in the reviews, have run high. "Exciting," "vibrant performance," and "highly polished and professional" are only a sample of the reactions that have followed the accomplished troupe of actors and two previous years of fulfilling its goal, "to bring quality across the country during this productions of culturally significant dramatic literature to the nation at large."

Tickets to the Shakespeare Festival will go on sale in Albany, Troy and Schenectady on March 15, and at the Saratoga Spa Theatre shortly thereafter. Individuals or groups wishing to make reservations before that date may write to the National Shakespeare Company, 639 10th Avenue, New York 10036.

Dear Abby . . .

Wife Should Scrub Him

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago Wilbur started taking his baths somewhere else. I told him I wanted him to take his baths at home, but it didn't do any good. I finally got a legal separation and we lived apart for nearly three months. Then Wilbur came begging back, saying he was lonesome for me and the kids. We have seven. I put my pride aside and took him back because he promised he would take his bath at home. Well, he did, for about month, than he started taking them somewhere else again. Am I wrong for wanting Wilbur to take his baths at home? How should I handle this?

WILBUR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: What's your complaint? WHERE exactly has your bathing beauty been bathing? If Wilbur's giving the YMCA his business, skip it. But if he has been splashing around with some mermaid, YOU give HIM the business. And if you can prove it, he'll be up to his neck in hot water!

DEAR ABBY: A very close friend asked me to marry him as he was in trouble and this was the only solution for him. I was assured by him and his attorney that this would be strictly a legal proceeding and a divorce would be arranged after one year. I agreed. Now, I find myself wondering what I will do if the man with whom I am going asks me to marry him before I am free to marry again? There never has been anything between this friend and myself, nor could there ever be. Do you think my fiance would ever understand, and believe that I married this friend as a favor and nothing more?

IN NAME ONLY

DEAR IN NAME: Tell your "very close" friend to find himself another puppet bride, you've got permanent plans for the real thing.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: When a couple is engaged, should the man have to still go on "courting" the girl or should both partners try to do their best to show they care for one another? My fiance and I live 200 miles apart. I am in college ,on limited funds, and she is a wellpaid secretary. It would help me a lot if she would phone me once in a while. In addition, when I do phone, it's hard for her to realize that she should keep the calls down to less than half an hour.

I once said it would be nice if she called me once in a while and she said it wasn't "proper" for girls to call men. I think after a couple has been engaged for almost a year, things should be different, don't you?

ENGAGED

DEAR ENGAGED: Yes. And although this may seem like a "small" problem, it may carry with it an important message. Your fiancee appears to be inconsiderate, self-centered and inflexible. Can you take 50 years of that?

College Admissions Counselors Will Be Available for Interviews in New York City

Admissions counselors from a group of colleges will interview interested students in New York City on March 15-16-17, 1966 and in Newark on March 18-19, 1966. High school seniors and juniors may meet with the admissions officers from one or more of the colleges listed below. In recent years, individuals and groups of students from both public and private schools have traveled great distances in order to take advantage of this opportunity for interviews.

Parents and guidance counselors may also interview as many admissions officers as they wish. The colleges included in this cooperative plan cover a wide area of the country — Arkansas, California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wisconsin.

This plan enables prospective applicants to learn more about colleges and universities from various parts of the country. Small, medium-sized, and large colleges are represented.

In view of the ever-increasing college population and the more stringent entrance requirements, every student should make use of this opportunity to learn more about the offerings of the various institutions of higher learning.

The admissions officers from the colleges listed below will be available for interviews in New York City on March 15, 16, and 17 at the Hotel Roosevelt and in Newark on March 18-19, at the Hotel Robert Treat.

The colleges to be represented are: Alliance College, Pennsylvania; Arkansas College, Arkansas; Belknap College, New Hampshire; Bryant College, Rhode Island; Cambridge School, Massachusetts; Cardinal Stritch College, Wisconsin; Chamberlayne Jr. College, Mass.; Chapman College, California; Christian College, Missouri; Doane College, Nebraska; Eureka College, Illinois; Findlay College, Ohio; Florida College, Florida; Franklin College, Indiana; Franklin Pierce College, N. H.; Hoffstra College, New York; Huntington College, Indiana.

Indiana Central College, Indiana; Kentucky Southern College, Kentucky; Lakeland College, Wisconsin; Lynchburg College, Virginia; Milwaukee School of Engineering, Wisc.; Nasson College, Maine; Northland College, Wisconsin; Ohio Northern Univ., Ohio; Pa. Military College, Penna.; Pfeiffer College, N. C.; Rio Grande College, Ohio; St. Andrews Presbyterian Col., N. C., Simpson College, Iowa; Sudbury College, Vt.; Upper Iowa University, Iowa; Walsh College, Ohio; Western N. S. College. Mass.; William Penn College, Iowa.

Kings Men Entertain At Local Functions

The Kingston Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, otherwise known as the Kings Men, presented a 15-minute program of barbershop harmony on Tuesday evening, March 1 at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring Street, Kingston. This entertainment was provided for a YMCA banquet honoring Louis Shaefer.

On March 12, the group will sing for a dinner-meeting of the Catskill Region Chapter of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers at The Capri 400, Port Ewen.

Later in the month on March 26, the Kings Men will be part of a two hour fund raising musical show put on by the Saugerties Lions Club in the Saugerties High School. Tickets will be available to the public in the near future.

Purposes of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. are to preserve and perpetuate barbership style singing, to promote the education of its members and the public in music appreciation and to provide a civic service to the community by participating in charitable activites through singing. All men who are interested in singing and joining the chapter are urged to contact Robert Chieffo, president, 17 Arnold Drive Woodstock.

Area Dietetic Unit Hears Employment Speaker at Meeting

Theron Yawn, New York State Department of Labor Employment Security Manager at the Poughkeepsie Unemployment Office, addressed the members of the Mid-Hudson Dietetic Association Wednesday night at St. Francis Hospital.

Yawn said that the Poughkeepsie Office has a staff of 26 people; its functions include both job placement and administration of the Unemployment Insurance. He noted that last year $1,000,000. were dispensed in Unemployment Insurance Benefits. The peak of unemployment usually falls during the three winter months beginning with December.

Yawn said that in placement, the USES often administers the general aptitude test battery which assists the placement office personnel in counseling the applicant on a field of work. This also assists the prospective employer by reducing training time for new employes and by cutting down on employe turnover. It is a service which employers may request for job applicants not referred by the employment office. A proficiency test in clerical skills and an interest test is also given. These tests have been developed and tested by the Department of Labor in Washington.

Yawn also noted that these tests are used for the Man Power Training and Development Program, screening applicants for programs such as key punch operator, practical nurses, auto mechanics, machine shop operation and stenographers. Other functions of the unemployment office noted by Yawn were testing and counseling in area high schools, testing for the job corps and the farm labor program.

A business meeting followed at which Mrs. Hilda Brett presided, Mrs. Gerry Murdenfield was the hostess. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday April 6 at the Kingston Hospital.

4-H STANDARD BREEDING—Michael Warren of High Falls, a five-year member of the High Falls Lightning Rods 4-H Club is participating in a new standard-bred breeding program for 4-H members that offers exciting possibilities to learn how to breed, raise and train standardbred horses. Standardbred breeders in cooperation with extension personnel have selected high quality mares and made them available at a reasonable price to 4-H members. They will also provide free stud service from some of the finest standardbred stallions in the state. Young Warren received his standardbred mare last week and reported she is doing fine. The mare is in foal and is a large beautiful black horse from Ohio. Plans are being developed to provide awards and recognition as incentives for 4-H members who do quality project work. Through participation in this program, 4-H members may be able to realize profits for future education.

Nothing Basically New Is Found In U. S. Approach to Viet War

EDITOR'S NOTE — The writer of this analysis is a Pulitzer Prize winner who has been in Viet Nam since 1961 — longer than any other American correspondent. He was for three years chief of the AP bureau in Saigon and now is a free-lance writer who remains close to the centers of activity.

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — There have been many changes in the names of ministers, organizations, programs and personnel over the past few years in Viet Nam — but basic approaches do not seem to have changed much.

Beyond the continuing military buildup and vastly increased aid spending, there is nothing basically new in America's approach to the war.

Asked of Emphasis

After the Honolulu conference between President Johnson and Vietnamese leaders, a newsman asked U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge: "Was there anything that we weren't doing that we were missing that required this new emphasis?"

Lodge replied: "We were doing everything but most people didn't know that we were doing it."

Lodge's answer implied to many observers that the main reason for the Honolulu conference was public relations — keeping the American people informed about the war.

Honolulu did throw the spotlight on a new Vietnamese ministry, the "department of revolutionary development" headed by an energetic army officer, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang.

Save for Democracy

The basic goal of the ministry is to make Viet Nam safe for democracy.

In 1961, the comparable ministry under President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime was called the ministry of civic action. It was headed by Ngo Trong Hieu, who has been in jail since the Nov. 1, 1963, military coup.

The real boss of the ministry's operations was Diem's brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu. Nhu and the Americans hit on an ambitious and sweeping program called the strategic hamlets plan, aimed at grouping virtually all of Viet Nam's farmers in rigidly controlled government hamlets.

Washington was enthusiastic, and threw its weight behind strategic hamlets and Nhu.

Within the U.S. aid mission in Saigon a new department was created. This rural affairs division was to procure anything from fertilizer to submachine guns needed by the strategic hamlets. The section was headed by a former Central Intelligence Agency official, Rufus Phillips, who had experience fighting the Communist Huks in the Philippines.

Ad Hoc Set Up

An "ad hoc" committee was set up consisting of Deputy U.S. Ambassador William C. Trueheart and Nhu to make sure the new American aid flowed directly to the hamlets without running afoul of Vietnamese bureaucracy and corruption.

Directly under Trueheart on the American side were Phillips and the CIA station chief, John Richardson, who worked closely with Nhu.

All that ended in the 1963 coup.

The strategic hamlets, hated from the outset by farmers forced to live in them, were swiftly dismantled by the farmers themselves, with active encouragement by the Viet Cong.

Civic action underwent changes. The word "pacification," thought to be politically unpleasant in its connotations, was changed to "rural reconstruction." A new "ministry of rural construction" was created.

Some Ideas Retained

Some of the ideas behind strategic hamlets were retained, but the name was changed to "new life hamlets."

Trueheart, Phillips and Richardson all left Viet Nam, and President Diem and his brother Nhu were slain in the 1963 coup.

Since then there have been countless political upheavals, coups and changes in planning. But there has also been a return to a control group strikingly similar to the Nhu-Trueheart committee. Many provincial officials have never adjusted to the new names and still call government - controlled hamlets "strategic hamlets."

This time, Deputy U.S. Ambassador William Porter is executive chief of the American side. At the working level under Porter is Brig. Gen. Edward Lansdale, another former CIA official, who was Phillips' boss in the anti-Huk campaign in the Philippines. Lansdale is generally credited with putting President Diem in power in 1954.

Opposite Lansdale on the Vietnamese side is Gen. Thang, boss of the new "department of revolutionary development." Lansdale and Thang seem to see eye to eye, as Richardson and Nhu did. And "revolution" has a better ring in Vietnamese ears than "pacification," even if they come to the same thing.

One of the most ambitious projects Lansdale and Thang have going is the training of special cadres in methods of organizing the peasants politically. These cadres are given training basically similar to that of Viet Cong political workers and are sent out to operate in small politico-military teams.

So far, 23,000 men and women are trained for these special teams; the goal is to add 16,000 this year.

The making of friends and influencing of people, which these teams are expected to do, is aimed at countering identical work the Viet Cong has carried out for years.

Unfortunately, the Viet Cong had a long head start.

All the while, more and more peasants are caught in the crossfire of war, losing their homes, property and lives. Refugees continue to stream out of the countryside to escape B52 raids and ground fighting. There are now more than 800,000 of these refugees, most of them an economic drain on the government.

Strangles Produce

The Viet Cong continues to strangle the flow of agricultural produce despite the opening of several key roads by U.S. troops. South Viet Nam, which in normal years ha d a large export surplus of rice, needs increasing donations of American rice to keep its cities from starving.

Food shortages, disastrous inflation and gigantic budget deficits all are headed off by increasingly big injections of American aid, and all indications are this load will grow heavier.

One bright spot to which many officials point is the fact that there have been no coups in nearly a year and none is in sight at the moment. But there is a dark side even to this stability.

A civilian politician, who until recently actively tried to jockey for a position of authority, put it this way:

Depend on Washington

"Let us be frank. Every single aspect of South Viet Nam's existence as a nation depends right now on Washington. The war is run by Washington, our economy is sustained by Washington. Without Washington, here would be nothing. Therefore South Viet Nam is not really an independent country. Its chief executive is more or less an American official. No civilian Vietnamese politician is much interested in taking over from Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, because no one wants the job as things are now."

Some political observers see danger in the lack of organized opposition to Ky. It means the war in Viet Nam is being polarized between the Americans and the Viet Cong without active participation of non-Communist Vietnamese, they argue.

On the other hand, Ky's continued support by the majority of his generals means stability at least within the armed forces.

With the American armed forces holding off big Viet Cong units and the Vietnamese military maintaining political stability, top planners hope Gen. Lansdale and his specialists will have time to make progress.

Lansdale's unorthodox ideas have won him praise from ranking associates here. Lodge has described him as "an artist."

Lansdale seems willing to try anything that may help win the Vietnamese people over, including singing commercials.

Has TV Broadcasts

South Viet Nam for the past month has had its own television station. It broadcasts an hour a day from an American plane that circles Saigon. The programs, in Vietnamese, are joint efforts by American and Vietnamese psychological warfare specialists.

The commercials are anti-Viet Cong slogans and sometimes songs.

But it all could collapse like a card house.

A few new members of the Vietnamese government seem to be pushing hard for the same objectives as the Americans. But behind this handful of leaders, the faces that have occupied key civil service offices for the past five years remain about the same. Only the names of the offices and slogans change.

Have Been Gains

There have been gains on the American side thanks to the buildup, but to some they seem depressingly small compared with the effort.

About 100 miles of strategic Route 19 across the Vietnamese highlands has been opened and kept open. To do that has tied down a division of American troops augmented by Koreans. Some other important roads have been opened. But Viet Nam, one of the richest rice producers in Asia, still has to import rice for the cities. The Viet Cong still throttles transportation.

American and Vietnamese commanders feel they have made progress pacifying some areas.

But since 1963 there has been a continuing series of crash programs to pacify provinces ringing Saigon. At least four different pacification plans have been applied to this small area, and now a new one has started. The Viet Cong is still overrunning outposts within earshot of the capital, collecting taxes within a mile of the city limits, and mauling American paratroopers 18 miles from downtown shoppers.

New Laws Explained

By Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick

The American Political Science Association recently completed a study of Congress, in an attempt to analyze the workload and related pressures on the time of a Congressman and his office staff. The results of this study are very interesting, and I thought you might like to see some of them, since they provide some insight into how a Congressional staff functions. I would like to point out, however, that the following figures from the study are overall averages. In some cases, they differ substantially from the experience of my own office. Nevertheless, I think you will find the information interesting, so here goes:

Breakdown on Chores

The average Congressman spends 24.9 per cent of his time on the floor, 18.2 per cent on committee work, 16.2 per cent on general legislation, 28.5 per cent on constituency affairs, and 12.1 per cent on public statements, writing, and functions. This is based on an average workweek of 60 hours. In my own case, I would modify this to include at least 15 per cent for answering mail and travel back and forth from the district.

Last year, the average office reports 1,520 visitors. This includes groups of school children and other "visitors in bulk". I would say that this is about right. The average percentage of visitors seen personally by the Congressman is 52 per cent.

The average mail count per week is 469 pieces, broken down as follows:

62 letters involving constituent problems; 180 opinion letters (pro and con); 38 requests for information; 58 miscellaneous letters from constituents; 120 letters and publications received from outside the District; and 11 letters referred by other members of Congress.

This is well below the experience of my office. We regularly receive between 1,000 and 1,500 pieces of mail per week, the great majority of which comes from our constituents. Handling this volume of mail efficiently remains one of our greatest problems.

Reports on Research

Average percentages of legislative research done for the member:

By the member himself, 29.5 per cent; By the Legislative Assistant, 23.5 per cent; By other members of his staff, 22.6 per cent; By the Legislative Reference Service (of the Library of Congress), 7.6 per cent; By the Committee staff; 13.4 per cent, and By Government and Department Agencies, 4 per cent.

Average percentages of work done in preparation for member's Committee meetings and hearings:

By the member himself, 62.6 per cent; By the member's office staff, 14.4 per cent and By Committee staff, 21.1 per cent.

Average percentages of work done in preparation for Floor debate and voting:

By the member himself, 57.5 per cent; By the member's office staff, 28.6 per cent; By Committee staff, 10.3 per cent and Other sources, 3 per cent.

The average Congressman spends 5.7 days per month in his Distroct while Congress is in Session. This contrasts sharply with my own experience. I average 3 day per week in the 28th Congressional District, which comes out to about 13 days per month.

While Congress is in session the average member reads 4.8 daily newspapers, 7.7 weekly newspapers, 5.1 periodicals and 1.6 non-fiction books per month. In addition, the staff marks or clips additional newspapers, increasing the total to about 17 newspapers in all. In our own case, the total is about double, because of the large number of weekly newspapers published in our District.

The following "excessive demands" on their time were mentioned by three or more members:

Unnecessary phone calls; excessive and irrelevant debate; committee work (especially legislative study and research); visitors in the office during working hours (especially from visitors from outside the district); constituents with unrelated personal business and requests (favors, jobs); telephone calls at all hours; correspondence (including mail cranks); banquets, dinners and parties (social functions were the most frequently cited "excessive demand"); and demands of reading (including to edit, read or review material for publication).

Let me emphasize that these opinions are a summary of those expressed by all Congressmen and do not necessarily agree with mine. As a matter of fact, I believe that most Congressmen must learn to accept them as an inherent part of the job.

The following were among suggestions made by members in relation to office operations, research needs, staffing, etc.:

Increased office allowances especially stationery and telephone; increased travel allowance; increased allowance for electrical equipment; paid trips to the District for key staff members; establishment of an Office of Administrative Counsel to aid with case work (constituent problems); more research staff people; a central pool of necessary office equipment; establishment of a summer recess; and more office space (in the Cannon and Longworth Buildings).

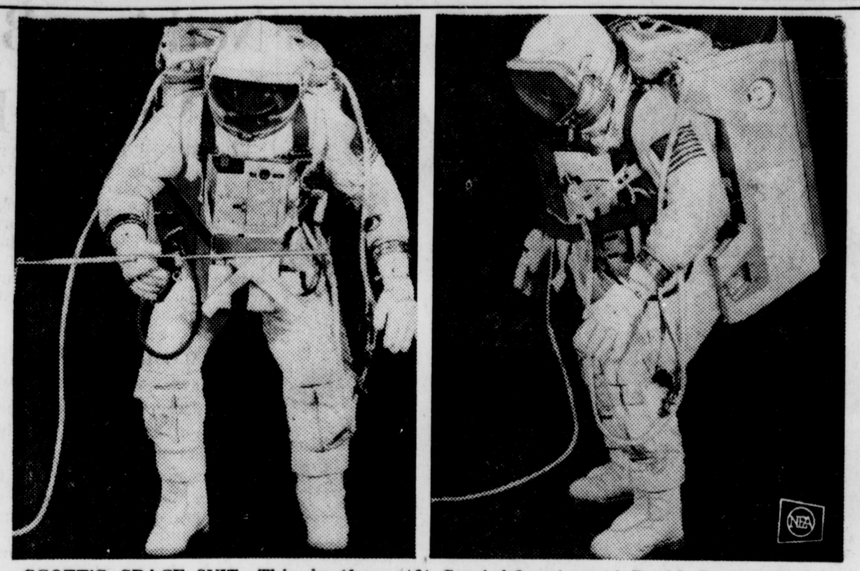

Needs More Space

I would like to add my vote to the request for more office space. If you haven't been down to visit me in Washington, you may have a somewhat distorted idea of what a Congressman's working quarters are like. Let me enlighten you. We have a two-room suite, with each room measuring approximately 15x23 ft. In one room we have six desks (each with a clacking typewriter), filing cabinets, copying machine, bookcases, and assorted other equipment. In addition, there are a couple of portable typewriters. At times we have as many as eight people working simultaneously in conditions that can only be described as bedlam.

My office is in the other room. But it is not mine alone. One corner is fenced off by storage shelves and serves as my Administrative Assistant's "office". Less than three feet away from him is a noisy mimeograph machine. We both spend a lot of time on the telephone, and in speaking to visitors, and rarely enjoy any privacy. An extra typewriter and work table are also kept in my office so that the room can be used by staff people when I am out of the office.

These are hardly ideal conditions for working efficiently. This may help explain why so many of us take bulging briefcases home with us each night, where we can enjoy a measure of peace and quiet.

I guess it's not really as bad as it sounds. After all, we do manage to get our work done, and the hectic environment is part of the excitment that we all love so much down here in Washington.

SCOTT'S SPACE SUIT—This is the outfit Gemini-8 astronaut David Scott will be wearing for his scheduled space walk lasting 1½ orbits of the earth. The front and back packs contain life-support systems and equipment to power the space "gun," the thin rod held in horizontal position in picture at left, with which Scott will maneuver in space. His face will be protected from the sun's unfiltered rays by a gold-plated helmet visor. A 75-foot tether line will link Scott with the Gemini-8 capsule.

Jewish Purim Observance Is Gala Event

The Festival of Purim is a season of merriment for the Jewish People. It falls on the 14th day of the Hebrew month of Adar, which corresponds this year with Sunday, March 6.

Purim is the celebration commemorating the historic event that occurred in Ancient Persia about the sixth century BC. At that time the Jewish people had been driven out of the Land of Israel, the first Holy Temple had been destroyed, and the Jews exiled into land of the Near East Asia, by the Babylonians. When Persia conquered Babylonia, the Jewish people came under the rule of the Persian Empire.

The great Xerxes, who was the emperor called in the Scriptural Book of Esther, Ahasueros, had as his queen a girl of Jewish descent whose name was Esther. The king's prime minister, Haman, demonstrated his anti-semitic tendency toward the Jews by seeking to have them destroyed, and chose by lots, which is in Hebrew purim, the 13th day of the lunar month of Adar, for the day of annihilation.

Esther Foils Plot

Esther learned of this plot by Haman through her cousin, Mordecai, who was an advisor to the king. Esther was successful in having this plot foiled because of the king's love for her. Haman was executed when the king found that his prime minister was seeking too much power for himself, and the Jewish people were saved from annihilation.

Because of this event which was a miraculous occurrence, the Jews, observe the holiday by reading the Book of Esther at a religious service on the night before Purim, during which time noisemakers, called graggers, are used to denounce Haman every time his name is read in the book, gay celebrations are held, masquerade parties for children are the norm of the day, and plays and skits denoting the story of the holiday are shown. The symbolic food for the day is Homontashen, a prune or poppy-filled cookie, made like three cornered hats, to represent the hat that Haman wore.

Local Services, Celebration

At Congregation Ahavath Israel, the Book of Esther, called the Megillah, will be read on Saturday at 7 p. m. All members and all their children may attend the the service. Graggers will be distributed to all the children, and a social will be held after the service in the vestry hall, where Homontashen will be enjoyed by adutls and children alike.

Sunday, 11 a. m., a Purim masquerade party will be held in the vestry hall for the children, who are to appear in various costumes and masked for the occasion. Awards will be given for the most appropriate, the funniest and the most beautiful costume. A puppet show, depicting the Story of Purim, will be shown by Mrs. Carl Lipton, and songs and refreshments will follow.

At Congregation Agudas Achim, Purim will be observed Saturday night and all day Sunday.

The Scroll of Esther will be read at 6:30 p. m. services Saturday. Sunday services will start 8 a. m. Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport and Cantor Herman Slomovits will participate.

At Temple Emanuel, a gala Purim carnival will be held Sunday beginning 11:30 p. m. There will be a special costume contest, games, food, singing and dancing for all children.

The Purim service will be held in the sanctuary at approximately 3:30 p. m. The traditional reading of the Megillah will take place at this time.

RETURN FROM ALBANY—Two Ulster County 4-H delegates to the 31st annual Capital Day met at the 4-H office are here on their return from the two-day session and tour of the State Capital. They are Douglas McCord of Wallkill and Frances Embree of Stone Ridge. The delegates met with Governor Rockefeller on Monday and attended a breakfast with State Sen. Lloyd A. Newcombe of Catskill, who represents the 43rd Senatorial District embracing Ulster County. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

State Seeks Federal Aid to Develop Growth

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A $1.5 million federal grant is sought by New York State to help develop the "physical, social and economic growth of the state," says Gov. Rockefeller's office.

A Rockefeller spokesman said Thursday that the state had applied to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the grant.

If approved, it would help cover the cost of a proposed $2.25 million program of planning studies over a two-year period. The state would provide the remaining $750,000, the governor's office said.

The regions to be studied are the Nassau - Suffolk section of Long Island and the Lake Champlain-Lake George region, including the counties of Clinton, Essex, Warren and Washington.

Believe Viet People's Thoughts Would Reflect Divergent Views

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — What do the Vietnamese people think about such things as the war, their government, the Americans, the future?

Any attempt to answer that reflects the divergent views and circumstances that make up Viet Nam.

Identification Sought

Who are the people? Are they the 80 per cent who live off the land in this country of 15 million? Are they represented by the military structure that has come into dominance? Are they the intellectuals, the professional people?

Take Saigon, for example. This once-pleasant city has taken on the aspects of a tawdry boom town, but some people seem to like what has happened.

The city is jammed with free-spending Americans and there is money to be made.

Prices of almost everything have skyrocketed, however, and the income of a man on a salary has not kept pace. Some basic foods often are scarce. There are poor, sometimes hungry, people.

Despite the misery, there is a "make it now" atmosphere, coupled with the acceptance of a people long accustomed to war.

Same Is True

Much the same is true in other cities and larger towns in Viet Nam.

While the get-rich-quick elements enjoy it, there is another side.

"We are corrupting these people," said a white-haired American driving along a bar-lined street. "After the French and after some of the things they have been through with some of their own governments, I wouldn't have thought it was possible. But is is."

Some Vietnamese share his feelings. They say they realize the necessity for what has happened to their country. Many are sincerely grateful for the U.S. military effort, and say they believe it has given them their last chance to keep from being taken over by the Communists. Still, they wish things could have been different.

Lasted Longer

As for what they think of the government, the usual comment is: "Well, it has lasted longer than anyone thought it would."

This is true. When the military regime headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky took power last June, few people gave it much of a chance. Now, on the surface and as governments go in Viet Nam, it appears fairly stable.

"What do you think of Premier Ky and his government?" was the question put to one 23-year-old girl at an English language school.

"Mr. Ky is a big man now and so people like him," she replied. "If something happens and Mr. Ky isn't a big man any more, then people won't like him."

Representative Thinking

Her somewhat vague view seemed representative of the thinking of many of the people and indicative of their acceptance of political circumstance.

In the United States, the question of free elections for Viet Nam often is debated. Many ask if the Vietnamese people would vote for an anti-Communist government.

Here the question seems beside the point of reality.

High American authorities concede that when the Vietnamese government talks of holding elections, as it says it will do in 1967, it is thinking only of the election of non-Communists. It is not considering any plan for letting the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front or any other Communist group put up candidates.

While saying they know of no way to insure free elections now, Americans here do hold theoretical discussions on the subject.

Working for Years

Qualified persons emphasize that for years the Communists have been working to build what now is a disciplined, experienced, knowledgeable political machine. They recognize there is nothing like it on the Vietnamese government side, and they leave little doubt that if there were a free election now, the majority of the ballots would come out Red.

Although the official pronouncements differ, many Vietnamese will agree privately with that assessment.

This does not mean that the majority of the people want to be ruled by the Communists. Many are strongly opposed to it.

There are no public opinion surveys in Viet Nam. There are no mass communications that link or inform the people. There are people in the cities who can talk of the latest trends in modern art, music or international affairs. In the rice paddies there are peasants who do not know the French are gone or that the Americans are here. Most of them know for one reason or another that there is a war going on. They only know what happens in their rice field or hamlet.

The tired cliche still holds as far what the people think and want: Most of them just want to be left alone.

Stratton Makes Pitch for Unity On Viet Policy

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton says it is time to end the "agonizing doubts, second - guessing and poor-mouth" about U.S. policy in the Viet Nam war.

The legislator from Amsterdam made that observation Thursday night in an address to members of the Allied Transportation Industries Association Inc.

Stratton also said it was time for "a little national unity, courage and confidence to match the high morale of the fighting troops in Viet Nam.

"It is time for us in Washington," Stratton said, "to put our mouths where are our hopes are in the attacks on American policy. We must get on with winning the war."

He cited Congressional Approval of President Johnson's $4.8 billion war spending bill as "the turning point in our attitude toward the war."

Turning to state politics, Stratton said, "I have not taken myself out of the Democratic race for candidate for governor."

He declined to say, however, that he would actively seek the nomination. Stratton said to do so would be an "additional step" which he is not prepared to take at this time.

Stratton said he doubted the effectiveness of a proposed forum-type of campaigning for Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls. "I have been all over the state as a declared candidate several times," he said, "and it didn't do much good."

He said it was most likely the Democratic candidate would be named "at the last minute."

Felmont, Agway Get PSC Okay for Plants

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today granted authority to the Felmont Oil Corp. and Agway Inc. to construct new industrial plants at Olean.

Felmont, which owns 175 acres in the city and Town of Olean, proposes to build a $7,482,000 ammonia plant to employ about 50 persons.

Agway, a large farm cooperative, plans to construct a $9-million plant to manufacture agricultural fertilizers, livestock feeds and other industrial nitogenous products. Agway will acquire from Felmont part of the land adjacent to the ammonia plant site and use the company's product in its manufacturing.

Kingston and Onteora Play Section Nine Openers Tonight

S-I-T-Z-M-A-R-K-S

By CHARLES J. TIANO

(Freeman Sports Editor)

Cancellation of Sunday's scheduled Northeastern Ski Jumping tournament at Rosendale is the crowning blow to a desperate season of cross country and ski jumping events.

This was the year — a quarter century later — that the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club put tremendous effort and money into reviving the Nordic sport in Ulster county. Their best laid plans went haywire in the face of one of the flukiest winters in years.

There is another sports species gazing anxiously into the skies these days, wondering when the fairways will be dry enough to launch the ancient pursuit of pars, birdies and bogies.

1965-66 will be remembered as the winter which tried the souls of ski operators and clubs who had marvelous plans for a banner season. At least the Nordic sport has returned to Ulster county. It isn't possible that 1966-67 could be as bad as 1965-66, or is it?

• Sharon's Trailsweepings:

A full weekend is on tap for the Trail Sweepers. The club's second trip of the year — this time to Mt. Sunapee for the annual Invitational Weekend — runs from today through Sunday (March 4-6). Forty members are expected on the trip and lodging has been arranged at Russell's Inn on Lake Sunapee. George's Mills, New Hampshire.

On the list of activities — a weekend of skiing and fun races, a dinner-dance Saturday night and cookout Sunday. USEASA Basic and Intermediate Proficiency Tests will also be given. Since only four clubs from the eastern part of the United States are invited to Mt. Sunapee for this special weekend, it's quite an honor for the Trailsweepers to receive an invitation for the second consecutive year. Another feather in the cap of our local club.

• Plenty of Events at Home:

For those Sweepers not going to Sunapee, there are plenty of events on the home front to keep them busy. Two of the biggest are the ICCC (Inter-Council Coordinating Committee's Giant Slalom at Belleayre on Saturday for Seniors who qualified as a result of last weekend's Draper Race and selected Juniors and the Ski Patrol Exam at Highmount (tobogan portion) on Sunday. .. ....

Also scheduled locally are the Trail Sweepers Instruction Program at Highmount Saturday — Junior Instruction at 11 a. m.; Senior Instruction at 1:30 p. m. Sunday; Junior and Senior Race Instruction at 1 p. m.

• Aspen, Here They Come:

Off to Aspen next weekend (March 12) will be the Trail Sweepers Janet Wakely, Don DeKoskie, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Potter, Art Boyce, Jack Edwards, Dr. C. J. Goffredi, and Chuck Nile. Originally planned as a charter flight, the trip was arranged by Rip Van Winkle Ski Council through the Hudson Valley Ski Club of Poughkeepsie, a member of the ICCC. Here's wishing them best for a happy week on the Colorado slopes.

Congratulations and Consolations — to the Trail Sweepers Five who comprised the second place team in the annual Art Draper Memorial Race last Sunday at Belleayre. Even with their noble efforts, the Trail Sweepers were squashed by the 18-second lead of the Hudson Valley Ski Club. The coveted trophy is now back in the hands of the Hudson Valley, the club that held it for three years prior to last year's intervention by the Sweepers.

• Ski Touring Council:

The spectacular rise of new ski areas and uphill lifts is being paralleled to a lesser degree by the emergence of an associated sport — ski touring.

Basically, ski touring consists of cross country walks on skis over rolling terrain of fields, woods and hills — all far from the fast pace of downhill skiing.

The Ski Touring Council is responsible for the growth of the sport in the east. The council is charting and encouraging the marking of hundreds of miles of touring trails in the East and sponsors instruction workshops and weekend trips. Eleven trips were scheduled this winter.

Further information on ski touring, rental, equipment, touring trails and planned ectivities may be obtained by writing R. F. Mattesich, Ski Touring Council, 444 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10022.

Clarkstown Foe For Maroon Five

Washingtonville Plays Onteora at Valley C.

Five Ulster County high school teams play first round games in the annual Section 9 competition tonight and Saturday.

Kingston High (7-3), the DUSO League runnerup to Newburgh Free Academy, plays Clarkstown of Rockland County, tonight at 8:30 at the Newburgh Academy gym.

Onteora Central (9-3), with its best UCAL squad in five years, meets Washingtonville of Orange County, tonight at 7 p. m. at the Valley Central School in Montgomery.

Marlboro's newly crowned UCAL champions take on Ellenville High Saturday at 8:30 at Valley Central School. New Paltz, UCAL runnersup, and Highland Falls (Orange County) play in the 7 p. m. opener Saturday at Valley Central.

In other action:

Newburgh Academy (10-0) in the DUSO meets Nyack in an "A" contest tonight at 8:30 at Valley Central.

Monticello of the DUSO and Tappan Zee play the prelim to Kingston-Clarkstown at the NFA gym in a Class B clash tonight at 7.

Warwick Central takes on the winner of Onteora-Washingtonville Tuesday at 7 at Valley Central.

Class A and B finals will be played March 11 at 8:30 at New Paltz, with the C and D finals at New Paltz the next night.

State U. Closes Season Saturday

State University of New Paltz closes out its 1965-66 basketball season with a SUNYAC Conference game with Oneonta, Saturday night at New Paltz.

Empire Fives In Jr. College Semi-finals

FRANKLIN, Mass. (AP) — Two of five New York entries have gained Thursday night's semifinal round of the National Junior College Athletic Association's region III basketball tourney.

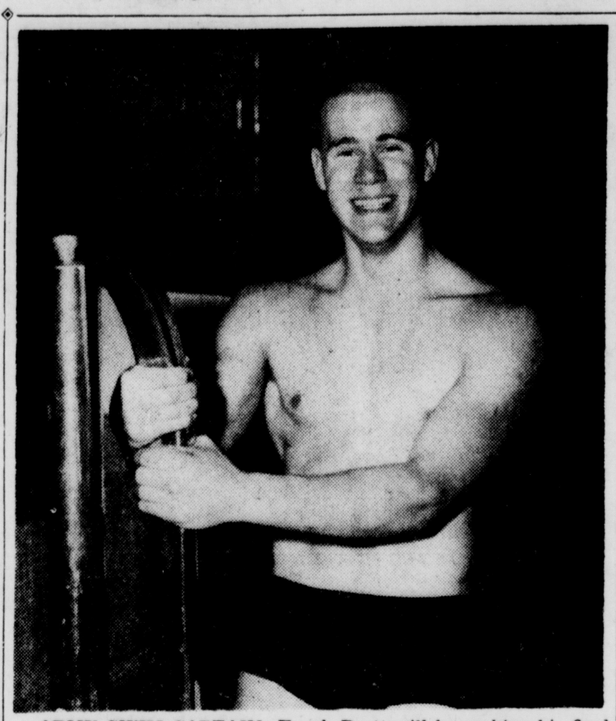

Erie County Technical Institute of Buffalo, the pre- tourney favorite, whipped Mohawk Valley Community College of Utica 97-80 in the opening round and Hudson Valley Community College of Troy stopped defending champion Canton A and T Institute 69-64.

The other New York entry, Niagara, Community College, was ousted by the lone Massachusetts entry, Leicester Junior College, 94-83. Gaining a semifinal berth against Leicester was Vermont's Champlain College which whipped Johnson and Wales Junior College of Providence, R.I., 86-65.

The semifinals will be played tonight at the Dean Junior College gym with the championship game Saturday night. The winner moves into the national tourney at Hutchinson, Kansas, March 15-19.

Kill 2,108 Deer in County; New York State Take - 67,073

The Conservation Department announced today 67,073 deer were killed in New York State during the 1965 big-game season, the third largest deer take on record.

Previous high takes were 72,677 in 1957 and 72,315 in 1956. During the 1964 season, hunters took a total of 58,872 deer.

Ulster County contributed 2,108 to the total take.

Steuben County in Central New York continues as the county with the highest total deer take with 6,033. Other counties comprising the state's ten best deer areas are: Delaware (4,893)), St. Lawrence (4,623), Sullivan (4,610), Allegany (4,003), Hamilton (3,219), Cattaragus (3,050), Franklin (2,559), Ulster (2,108), and Herkimer (1,852).

The regular 1965 harvest includes 42,588 adult bucks; 23,631 deer of both sexes under the party permit system and 843 deer of both sexes downed by archers. The buck take tops the previous record of 41,637 set in 1957.

On a regional basis, Catskill hunters took 18,838 deer, including 14,711 bucks, compared with 1964 season take of 15,879. The Catskill region buck harvest is the fifth highest and includes a new Delaware County buck take record.

62-Point Blast For Chamberlain

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain calls San Francisco's Nate Thurmond the best defensive center in the world. But Thurmond was out with a back injury Thursday night and Chamberlain poured in 62 points as Philadelphia's 76ers beat the Warriors 135-125 in the night's only National Basketball Association game.

The Warriors threw 6-foot-8 rookie forward Fred Hetzel against Chamberlain and the strategy seemed to be paying off for three quarters, as the Warriors pulled ahead by as much as nine points. The Warriors led 65-60 at the half.

But Chamberlain kept turning in on Hetzel, who eventually retired to the bench with five fouls. Then Wilt pulled the 76ers away in the final period.

Chamberlain hooped 26 field goals and 10 free throws. One of his goals was a tap-in on a jump ball, the second time he has scored that way this season.

Chamberlain also pulled down 37 rebounds as the 76ers won their eighth in their last 11 games.

The 76ers are 2½ games behind Boston and 2½ games ahead of Cincinnati, tonight's foe.

The 76ers have 10 games left, five at home, while Boston has nine to play, six of them away. The key game of the week will be Saturday's Boston-Philadelphia game here.

Hetzel led the Warriors with 35 points, his high point mark in the NBA.

Montreal Forum Not for Cassius

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MONTREAL (AP) — The beleaguered Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell fight, kicked out of the United States, has lost the large Montreal Forum as a site and may wind up today in Verdun — a Montreal suburb — if it ever lands any place at all.

In the midst of a stormy meeting Thursday night between members of the Montreal Athletic Commission and the would-be promoters, a member of the commission said an official of the 15,000-seat Montreal Forum, had rejected the controversial fight.

"We'll take it to Verdun," said Robert Arum, a New York lawyer and an officer of Main Bout Inc., of New York which owns the closed circuit television and other ancillary rights of the projected March 29 heavyweight title bout.

He said the fight could be staged in the 5,500-seat Verdun Auditorium in the Montreal suburb. He hoped to arrange that in conferences today, with Mayor George O'Reilly.

PHS Defeats Sawyers, 93 - 79

Lawrence Rims 32 for Pioneers

Fred Johnson, one of the top scorers in DCSL, and teammate Rich Lawrence, combined for 62 points in a final effort for Poughkeesie High School as the Pioneers closed the 1965-66 league season with a 93-79 win over Saugerties last night at the Sawyers' court.

Lawrence, an all-DUSO selection as a sophomore, scored 32 points, while Johnson, who made honorable mention last year, looped 30.

The win gave the Pioneers a 5-7 record on the season, while the Sawyers wound up with 2-5.

Shoulder O.K. On First Swat, Mickey Says

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle's right shoulder has passed its first test in the New York Yankees' spring training camp.

"The shoulder seems to be all right," Mantle said after swinging at some soft serves from Coach Vern Benson. "A little sore, but nothing like last year."

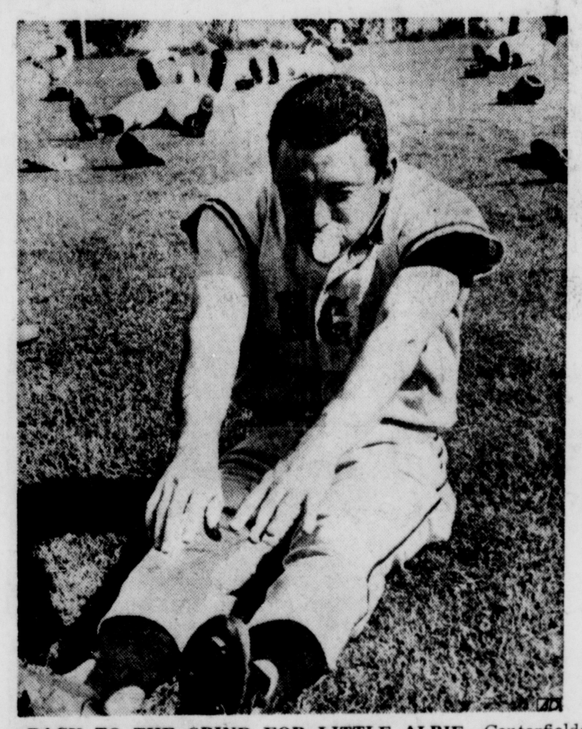

Mantle had not planned to do any swinging for a week or two but couldn't resist the urge when he saw another Yankee invalid, Roger Maris, pick up a bat.

Abbatiello Drives Roosevelt Winner

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Carmine Abbatiello drove Pinehaven Flash to a three-quarter-length victory in the $10,000 Invitational Pace Thursday night as Roosevelt Raceway concluded its 52-ninth winter meeting.

It was the 8-year-old gelding's first win in nine starts. Connie L. was second and Nosey Mite finished third in the event timed in 2:03 4-5.

Pinehaven Flash returned $6, $4.20 and $3.40.

Wawarsing Club Votes to Send Boy to DeBruce

Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association has voted to sponsor a boy to the State Conservation Camp at DeBruce for one week in July. He will be chosen by lot.

The club also voted to continue its annual pheasant raising projects by ordering 300 pheasant chicks which will be raised to maturity at the Eastern Correctional Institute colony farm at Wawarsing.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $845.36. One hundred members have paid dues for 1966. The 1965 membership totalled more than 185

Fifty members and guests attended February meeting at which a roast beef dinner was served by the committee of William Spencer, Carl Carlsen, and Allen Tefft.

Hudson Valley—Trail Sweepers Capture Draper Memorial Races

Hudson Valley Ski Club of Poughkeepsie recaptured the Art Draper Memorial Trophy, defeating the Trail Sweepers of Kingston, with a combined time of 357.5 seconds to 375.5 for the locals in the annual competition at Belleayre Ski Center.

Belleayre Ski Club placed third with 380.4 points. Hudson Valley captured the trophy the first three years it was in contention, before Trail Sweepers checked them last year.

Belleayre captured the top junior event — the Lillian Draper Memorial Trophy — with Navasink Ski Club (Ellenville), second; Eastern Orange County, Third, and Trial Sweepers fourth.

Hudson Valley's winning team was paced by Zeon Markewycz, who was clocked in 66.2, bestime of the day. Dale Brown's 69.8 clocking led the runnerup Trail Sweepers.

The summaries:

(Art Draper Memorial)

Hudson Valley	357.5
Zeon Markewycz	66.2

CROW HUNT TIPS

WHEN OWLS MOLEST CROWS' NESTS AND THEIR YOUNGSTERS (THEY ARE NATURAL ENEMIES) ALL CROWS THEN JOIN FORCES TO DRIVE AN OWL OUT OF THE COUNTRY--THAT'S THE BEST TIME TO USE AN OWL TO DECOY CROWS. BUT IN THE WINTER, CROWS PAY LITTLE ATTENTION TO AN OWL DECOY. THEN IT'S BEST TO USE A CROW CALL AND CROW DECOYS.

DO NOT DRIVE AN AUTOMOBILE CLOSER THAN ¼-MILE OF KNOWN CROW AREA. LEAVE AUTO HIDDEN, IF POSSIBLE. APPROACH UNSEEN TO WITHIN CROW-CALLING RANGE, THEN BEGIN CALLS.

JAMES R. HAGGERTY, JR. — GYMNAST

At Plattsburgh State

New Paltz Collegian Rated Crack Gymnast

"If he had started gymnastics in high school, he'd be on the U. S. Olympic team by now."

So spoke Bud Beyer of James R. Haggerty Jr. of New Paltz, a student gymnast and junior of Plattsburgh State University College. Beyer, coach of Plattsburgh State's gymnastics team, is a former U. S. Olympic gymnastics coach.

Haggerty, with less than a year of experience under Beyer, has achieved a performance level usually not attained until after at least three years of intense practice.

According to Beyer, Haggerty could conceivably reach a national calibre on more than one of the six Olympic events by the end of next year. If Haggerty does improve to such a level, says Beyer, a gymnastics "miracle" would have been seen at Plattsburgh, because of the limited experience Haggerty has had.

Wins All-Around Title

Recently Haggerty took the "all-around" title in a dual meet against the Cardinals' conference rival, Brockport State. He scored 75.2 of a possible 100 points, taking first place on the parallel bar, the still rings and the horizontal bar and second in the side horse and the long horse. This performance contributed heavily to the Cardinals' 178.6-107.6 victory in Plattsburg's first intercollegiate meet in gymnastics.

Beyer pointed out five natural attributes of Haggerty's that make him the outstanding gymnast. "He has," declared Beyer, "an aesthetic sense of rhythm and beauty of movement: a streamlined slimness; an unusual explosive power, which cannot be trained into an athlete; a sensitivity to the mechanics of movement and a clear understanding of the physics behind such movements; and the courage to constantly attempt harder and more dangerous moves on the various apparatus."

Best at Still Ring

Haggerty is best at the still rings, but is not far behind on the horizontal bar and the parallel bar. Beyer hopes to start his talented pupil on the only one of the six Olympic events he has not competed in as yet—the free exercise; and according to the Redbird mentor, Haggerty has all it takes to succeed in that also.

Another factor in Haggerty's success is his daily competition, the Cardinal team that is. They are talented enough to drive him to improvement. Of course, that relationship also works the other way around, with Haggerty setting goals for his teammates.

Haggerty is the son of Dr. James R. Haggerty, president of the Cards' rival college, New Paltz State.

It should be pointed out that Haggerty, an unusual young man, is achieving great things in gymnastics while holding down a part-time job, attending classes and supporting a wife and child," says Beyer.

Sanders 9-Under At Pensacola

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Doug Sanders is setting a fast early pace in the $65,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament, but he's looking over his shoulder nervously at a dimple-cheeked young man named Gay Brewer.

Gay used Sanders as a stepping stone to one of his most successful stretches last fall and he'd welcome a chance to do it again.

"I wouldn't be unhappy if that old Georgia Cracker and I came up to the last putt Sunday just as we did at Seattle last year," the 6-footer from Middletown, Ohio, said today.

On that occasion, the two tied for the title and Gay killed off his rival on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff. It started the husky midwesterner on a winning stretch that netted him three tournaments.

Sanders, former university of Florida player now registering from Ojai, Calif., goes into the second round of the tournament today with a two-stroke lead over Brewer after the two triggered a par-wrecking attack on the 6,380-yard, par-72 Pensacola Country Club course.

Fifty-seven of the 144 competitors matched or beat par, indicating it will take a par score or better to survive the cut tonight when the list is cut to the low 70 and ties.

Sanders, drinking orange juice and complaining of pains in his stomach, rang in seven birdies on the last nine holes Thursday for a 34-29—63.

Brewer came up a few hours later — his putter steaming — with a 33-32—65. He ran in two putts of 25 feet and another of 30 feet.

Each of the leaders used only 27 putts.

With such players as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Bill Casper, Ken Venturi and Tony Lema not competing, the $10,000 first prize here appears to be a free-for-all — if Sanders can be cooled off.

Baird Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee approves the nomination of Charles F. Baird as assistant secretary of the Navy for financial management.

Baird, 43, was nominated Thursday. His appointment requires Senate confirmation.

He lives in Chappaqua, Westchester County, N.Y., and is an executive of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Baird told the committee Thursday that he would dispose of his stock holdings in the company.

See Solons Balking On Lindsay Tax Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says he wants authority to raise another $520 million a year in taxes to save New York from paralysis and decay, but he faces tough opposition in the City Council and in the state Legislature.

Lindsay said in a radio and television talk Thursday night that he will ask the Legislature on Monday for permission to impose a personal and a business income tax to provide the bulk of new revenue needed to meet a record $4.5-billion budget.

Cool to Plan

At Albany, even within Lindsay's own Republican party, legislators were reported to be cool to the proposals unless the city raises its 15-cent bus and subway fare to pay part of the transit deficit.

Within the Democratic-controlled City Council reaction to the tax proposals was mixed. Several councilmen angrily walked out of a briefing Lindsay gave the council before the broadcast.

Other sweeping tax reforms were proposed by the mayor in the 15-minute fireside chat, including a stock transfer tax.

That proposal has caused the New York Stock exchange to exhume its 33-year-old threat to move to New Jersey.

'In Bad Condition'

Lindsay said that when he took office two months ago he found the city in "shocking financial condition" and said if he was unable to get the new revenue the city's services would be "severely damaged."

The anger within the City Council apparently came not so much from what Lindsay said, but with the way he said it.

"He talked to us like school children in short pants," said George Swetnick, a Brooklyn Democrat. "We don't need a lecture on the city budget."

The new revenue package would amount to about $67 for every man, woman and child in New York City.

Lindsay proposed that the city income tax rate be half of that imposed by the state. He suggested that the tax could be collected by the state taxation department.

Would Start June 1

If the city gets approval income tax withholding would being next June 1.

Two Republican leaders in the state Legislature, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea suggested that an increase in the transit fare would make the program more acceptable.

The Senate's Democratic Leader, Joseph Zaretzki, questioned the need for the additional revenue.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the exchange's board has voted unanimously to re-examine its decision to build a $50-million headquarters in Lower Manhattan. He said a study would be made of the possibility of moving all or part of exchange operations out of the city.

The tax transfer proposal would up the present annual revenue from $100 million to $150 million.

Rocky Re-Names Three

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Three members of the State Board of Social Welfare are redesignated by Gov. Rockefeller to serve terms ending July 1, 1970.

Miss Dorothy I. Height of Manhattan, Richard G. Kimmerer of Albany and Edward J. Johannes Jr. of Buffalo were reappointed Thursday by the governor.

Board members are paid $40 a day while on official business, provided the total per member does not exceed $1,000 a year.

Negroes May Veto Governor's Plans For Mrs. Wallace

By REX THOMAS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two civil rights spokesmen foresaw the chance today that Negro voters, rid of the poll tax, may exercise a veto over Gov. George Wallace's bid to elect his wife.

Orzell Billingsley and Arthur D. Shores, both Birmingham attorneys, predicted that 250,000 or more Negroes will vote in a block in the May 3 Democratic primary.

May Reach 400,000

Billingsley said the Negro vote, which has increased rapidly with the presence of federal examiners in 11 counties, may reach 400,000 by the November general election. And, unless for some reason the Negroes find no candidate for governor acceptable to them and decide to stay home, he said he looks for a bloc vote then, too.

Neither of the lawyers would rule out altogether the possibility that Negroes might support Wallace's wife, Lurleen, in her race for governor if she wins the Democratic nomination and goes against Republican congressman James D. Martin in November. Martin has said he will seek the GOP nomination.

But they said it would be difficult to get Negroes to vote for Mrs. Wallace. Shores, himself a candidate for the state Legislature, saw the possibility that a Wallace-Martin race would find many Negroes unwilling to support either candidate.

Billingsley, president of the Alabama Democratic Conference, conceded the bloc vote could go to a Republican in the general election if the Negroes felt that would upset the governor's hope of electing his wife as his "stand-in" successor.

Has Screening Group

The Alabama Democratic Conference has a screening committee, the attorneys explained, which "studies the candidates and issues." Until that recommendation has been made, they said their organization will withhold any endorsement.

The real impact of the Negro vote, which increased immeasurably because of a federal court ruling Thursday which knocked out Alabama's poll tax, may come in the runoff primary for governor May 28. The two top candidates fight it out in the runoff if no one gets a majority of the votes in the first primary.

If the candidates who gets the Negro support in the first election fails to make the runoff, one of the two in the finals can start off with a bonus of 250,000 or more votes. That could be the difference.

But, cautioned Shores, "no candidate is going to be able to deliver our votes to someone else. We will make our own independent decision about which one to support."

Still Sneezing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — June Clark's long siege of sneezing is as bad as ever, and today she was back in a hospital in Miami.

The 17-year-old high school sophomore was sent back after she developed bladder trouble and could not keep food down.

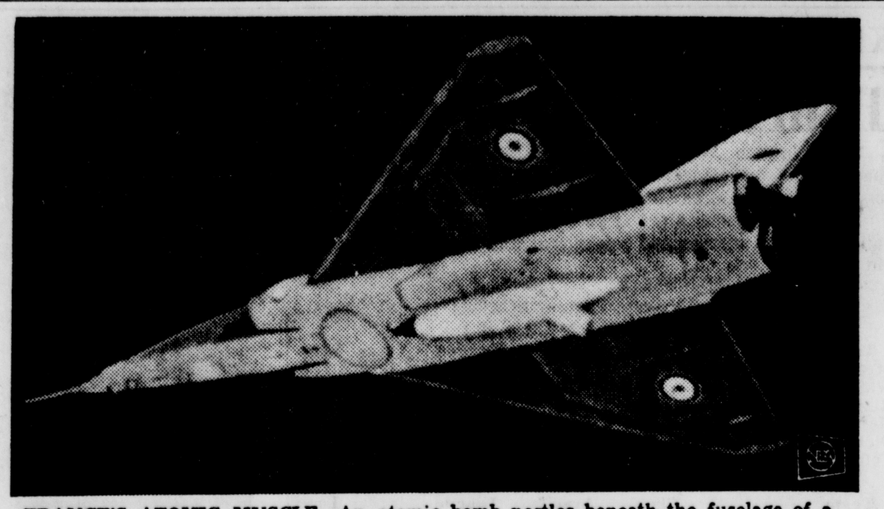

June has been sneezing about once every waking minute for two months. The sneezing gives her intense stomach, chest and nose pains.

Her doctors are baffled. Treatments ranging from hypnosis to infra-red exposure have failed.

EDITH EVANS, mezzo-soprano from Philadelphia, is a new face and a new find for Turnau Opera. A Marian Anderson scholarship winner at Curtis Institute of Music, she has sung with the American Opera Company and the New York City Opera. Miss Evans made her debut with Turnau recently in the production of Rigoletto at the opera's winter season in Sarasota, Fla. Singing the role of Maddalena, she was praised as a picturesque choice for the part; hailed for singing beautifully and with fervor. She will also appear as Sheherazade in Turneau's production of this Ravel one-act opera, at the Asolo Theater in Sarasota.

Firemen Alerted During Blackout

The purchase of a generating plant, reception of a new member, acquisition of additional chairs for the firehouse, and other matters of business were on the agenda of the monthly meeting of Woodsock Fire Co. No. 3 held at Lake Hill Tuesday night.

Fillowing the meeting the fire company was placed on the alert due to a power failure in the Lake Hill and Willow sections. The apparatus was manned for a period of about two hours, with a generator hooked onto the siren to warn in case of a fire.

Captain Alfred Ostrander reported on two drills held in Februaary and said the new generator ordered by the company had arrived at the dealer's and would be placed in service as soon as servicing was completed. This generator will be carried on the apparatus and will be used for ilghting at the scene of night fiires.

Harvey Ostrander of Willow was voted into membership in the company and welcomed by president Walter Stone.

The long-felt need for additional chairs for the firehouse was answered at the meeting when the company placed an order for 25 additional folding chairs for use at community meetings held at the firehouse.

Station check for the month of March was assigned to firemen Walker, Auchmoody, Bollenbach and Chase, with drills scheduled for March 13 at 9:30 a. m. and March 30 at 7 p. m.

Fire Chief Duncan reported on an officers meeting scheduled for March 8, service tests of all trucks in the department in accord with fire underwriters code, and plans for overhaul of equipment on vorious apparatus in service by the entire department.

Work is progressing on the second tank truck under construction at the firehouse, with Walter Stone in charge of the working crew. This truck consists of a Ford chassis mounting a 1,000-gallon tank. It will carry the portable pump, new generator, extra hose, portable tank, stretcher, pike poles, brush hooks and other necessary equipment. The company presently has a 700-gallon Chevrolet tank truck which has been in service for two years.

The auditing committee reported on a complete audit of the treasurer's books, finding them in good order, and the meeting was closed with a refreshment period.

Bullets Cost $210 Million

BOSTON (AP)—U.S. forces in Viet Nam are using ammunition at the rate of $210 million a month and are being supplied with bombs 2½ times faster than during the Korean War, a Defense Department official said today.

And, he said, the department is "budgeting for a consumption rate considerably higher."

Asst. Secretary of Defense Paul R. Ignatius included the figures in a briefing for New England business and industry leaders.

Link Named New P.O. Appointee For Woodstock

The Woodstock Post Office, functioning without the services of an assistant postmaster since late December, welcomed Charles Link of Stone Ridge to that position this week.

Postmaster Leon Carey has been without an assistant since Richard Bronson retired more than two months ago. Although 11 applications were filed for the job, appointment of a replacement for Bronson, long-time department employe, was delayed until last week.

Woodstock's new post office appointee has had more than 15 years of experience in the postal service. He comes to Woodstock from the New Paltz Post Office, where he served as a carrier for six years, and acted as assistant postmaster for six months during the absence of the regular man. Prior to that, he had been employed at the General Post Office in New York City and a Long Island post office.

Link left New Paltz to take up his duties here Monday. He will return to his old area Saturday night for a farewell party at the Ireland Corners Hotel in the college town. His former colleagues there are honoring him with the weekend fete at which he will be presented with an appropriate gift.

Link is a veteran of World War II; is married and the father of a son. He has been active in the Kingston area in bowling and softball circles. A native of Long Island, he moved to this area after marrying his wife, who was born in Atwood. Link will probably continue to reside in the Atwood area of Stone Ridge, while commuting to his new job in Woodstock.

Leary Trial Is Put Over Again

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Timothy Leary, who identified himself as director of a foundation doing research on the effect of drugs on the human mind, and his daughter Susan, 18, will go to trial Monday or Tuesday.

The two were charged with possession of marijuana after being arrested at the International Bridge coming from Mexico.

Leary, 45, said he was from Millbrook, N.Y., where he is director of the Castilia Foundation.

The cases had been set for trial today but were postponed until next week by process of being placed at the end of U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally's docket. Defense lawyers had requested a continuance.

Held on Check Charge

Maurice O'Dell of Lucas Avenue Extension was picked up Wednesday by Ulster County Investigator Thomas F. O'Dell was returned to Dutchess County to answer to the charge.

Woman Crash Victim

Newark, N. Y. (AP) Mrs. Madelyn Pierce, 44, of nearby Marion, was killed Thursday in the collision of an automobile and a train at a county road crossing six miles north of here.

Wayne County sheriff's deputies said the accident happened near the Fairville railroad station.

She lived on Minstead Road.

CSEA Declares Strike Substitute Is Greatest Need

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Civil Service Employes Association declared today that the central problem in the relationships of government and its employes was "not to find a substitute for Condon-Wadlin and its penalties but to find a substitute for the strike."

The organization, which claims 135,000 members, took this stand in a statement prepared for delivery at a hearing concerning the state's Condon-Wadlin law, which provides for discharge of public employes who strike.

Sparked By Strike

The hearing, conducted by a panel appointed by Gov. Rockefeller, grew primarily out of the recent transit strike in New York City. The Condon-Wadlin law was not invoked in the strike, and the strikers gained wage increases.

The Civil Service Association said today, in reference to the transit strike:

"No one can legislate a sense of responsibility upon the part of employe organizations or, for that matter, political courage upon the part of public officials."

The association called, however, for legislation that would:

1. Require organizations of public employes to renounce the use of the strike before they could be recognized as representatives.

Guaranteed Right

2. Guarantee the right of public employes to organize and negotiate with the employer.

3. Require the employer to designate a person or responsible agency to negotiate.

The statement specified that an employe organization should be the majority representative on a statewide basis or the largest possible on the local level. This appeared to be an oblique reference to a competitive organization of public employes, the AFL-CIO Council 50.

The association president, Joseph F. Feily, designated Henry Shemin, chairman of the group's labor relations committee, to deliver the statement.

Gypsum Sales Up

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)-National Gypsum Co. which produces building materials in 72 plants in the United States and Canada, reported Thursday record 1965 sales of $258,984,590.

The figure compared to sales of $257,053,791 for 1964.

The company's net income, however, showed a decline over the two-year period. Earnings for last year totaled $17,891,274, worth $2.49 a share, a decrease from 1964 earnings of $21,976,268, or $3.14 a share.

Buckley in Trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — William Buckley Jr. has sent out an SOS to save his voice of American conservatism, "National Review" magazine.

Buckley is asking subscribers to chip in $150,000 to pay the magazine's creditors.

"The fact of the matter is, we are dead broke," Buckley said in a letter to 100,000 subscribers. He said the magazine had a deficit of $100,000.

Sells Papers to Aid Kin

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Pastor Kurt Oeser has taken on the job of newsboy so that a widowed mother can get a vacation.

At 5 o'clock every morning the Evangelical preacher and three helpers set out on bicycles to deliver the morning papers to 300 of his parishioners in a village near Frankfurt.

The 39-year-old mother of two who usually delivers the papers needed a rest badly.

"No one asked me to help," said the pastor, "but the woman simply had to be helped. And since no other solution could be found, we are delivering the newspapers."

Goldberg on BBC-TV

LONDON (AP)—The British Broadcasting Corp. says Arthur J. Goldberg, United States ambassador to the United Nations, has accepted an invitation to return to the BBC studios in London for a television interview tonight.

Goldberg will be interviewed by Erskine Childers, author and television personality on the "24 Hours" show.

He walked out Wednesday night because his scheduled interview on the same show had been postponed for half an hour. He was to be interviewed following a humorous bit about the musical status of rats. He waited through a long report from Ghana before the rats took over.

Stick to Boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maritime union leaders say they're sticking with what they describe as a boycott aimed at ending non-Communist shipments to North Viet Nam. And the State Department hasn't budged from its belief these shipments can be best curbed by diplomatic negotiations.

That was the outcome of a conference Thursday between three union presidents and Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann. The union leaders wouldn't say if their boycott would apply only to specific hips or to all ships of a nation trading with North Viet Nam.

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

I must tell you of this fabulous, easy, low-cost and minimum-effort way that my wonderful husband found to wash those windows, mirrors, etc.

Buy the cheapest rubbing alcohol you can find, take the lid off and screw on a sprayer head such as comes on spray starch or hand lotion bottles—NOT FIZZ types.

Take a soft cloth, and you're ready for the easiest most wonderful, sparkling windows you have ever had.

Just spray on and wipe off. On any stubborn spots, just spray a little more alcohol and off they go.

You can use the same cloth for a good many windows, even after you would normally think it too soiled to use. In fact, you can use the same cloth with good effect as long as it dries the windows.

The wonderful part of using alcohol is that it cannot freeze, so you can use it in even below-zero weather. It's a must for those glass patio doors and windows. And if you wear plastic-coated gloves, you will have nice, warm hands.

May this be as helpful to you as it is to me.

An Ardent Reader

Ohhhh, you're a doll! I knew alcohol is wonderful for cleaning windows, but I never thought about putting the push-sprayer finger-type plunger right in the alcohol bottle.

And, did you know that crumpled newspapers are wonderful for shining those windows after you squirt the alcohol on them?

There's just something about the printers ink and alcohol that really makes glass gleam.

EXPLORERS: The American Thanksgiving meat, the turkey, got its name in a roundabout way. African explorers found guinea hens and cocks and sent them back to England by way of Turkey. The English people thought that they came from Turkey.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The "magic five per cent" is luring some investors out of stocks and into bonds or savings certificates at the banks. At least, that's one of the many reasons brokers are giving for the rush of selling of common stocks this week.

Investors can now get a bigger return on their money, whether five per cent or a bit less, from many other things than from most common stocks. Yield is the dividend payment as percentage of what you paid for the stock Stock prices had risen so high that they were yielding an ever smaller return.

Seen as Reason

To some stockholders that may seem a good reason to sell stocks — particularly if they can still do so at a profit over what they paid for their holdings some time back.

Most stock traders are presumed to be more interested in buying in hopes of a rise in price — for a capital gain — than they are for income in the form of dividends. But even to some of these traders, the uncertainties that rocked the stock market last month may have seemed like a good time to get out for a while. So they put the money they got for their stock holdings into high yielding bonds and certificates to ride out the storm.

This can't be proved, of course. It can only be guessed. But some brokers are guessing that the drop in stock prices might not have been so steep nor the volume of trading so high, if the money market hadn't been offering ever increasing yields on investments since early December.

It was then that the Federal Reserve Board started the interest rate rise by upping the discount rate which it charges member banks for borrowing from the Federal Reserve banks.

Bond prices have dropped sharply. Today some U.S. Treasury Bonds can be bought at so low a price that their fixed interest rate payments yield the investor around 5 per cent.

Some municipal bonds now coming to the market have been priced to yield around 4 per cent. Since the interest on them is exempt from federal income taxes, they always pay less than corporate bonds and other forms of investment on which the income is taxable.

Corporate bond prices have fallen in line with the decline in Treasury bond prices. Yields above 5 per cent are available at today's prices.

Commercial banks are limited legally to 4 per cent for ordinary savings accounts which can be withdrawn at will. But several big New York banks are now paying 5 per cent for large deposits that cannot be withdrawn for a year or so.

Many mutual savings banks have raised their dividend payments. Savings and loan associations, which usually pay more than banks, are feeling the competition as savers are lured to the new magic 5 per cents, or to rates somewhat below that but still markedly higher than last November.

In 1943, American forces defeated the Japanese in the Battle of the Bismarck Sea.

In 1908, a school fire in Cleveland, Ohio, claimed the lives of 172 children and teachers.

Ten years ago—Pope Pius XII warned all nations against the lure of what he called insidious peace overtures by the Communist Congress in Moscow.

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy announced he had named his brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, as Peace Corps director.

One year ago — Nearly 2,000 students, mostly Asians, attacked the U.S. Embassy in Moscow in protest against American Viet Nam policy.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than legal minimum wages or pay wage differentials based on sex. Most employes engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and time and one-half for hours worked over 40 in a week. Beginning September 3, 1964, most employes in certain large retail service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and time and one-half for hours worked over 42 in a week. The Act also requires equal pay for equal work for men and women. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act, call or write the U. S. Labor Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y., 10452. WYandotte 2-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

SIGN OF SPRING—There's always something interesting going on in a shopping center parking lot. This Casper, Wyo., garden center's enterprise offers a case in point. Not content with letting customers come to the shop, the alert merchant keeps this cart rolling around the parking lot to bring the merchandise right to the car door.

BIG DISH—The steel framework, weighing 35 tons and measuring 82½ feet in diameter, of the "dish" of a new radio telescope is positioned by cranes at Chilbolton, England. The telescope, constructed on a onetime air field, will be put to work tracking satellites and picking up radio waves from the sun, planets and deep space.

Girl Scout News

Brownies Have Party

Brownie Girl Scout Troop 17, leader Mrs. J. D. Ianotti, had a Brownie Punch Party in honor of the February holidays. All the Mothers were invited and each received a red and white flower made by the girls and were served punch and cookies.

Brownie Scout Marie Ianotti led the flag ceremony, the Brownie promise by Cheryl Goodheim, welcome speech by Ellen Lane and songs were led by Brownie Scout Jennifer Davis.

The troop also had a going away party for Brownie Davis who is moving out of Kingston. Each of the Brownies presented her with a hand made going away card and she also received a gift from the troop. Scout Davis hopes to find a troop in her new town as soon as she is settled.

Bailey Cadette Notes

Cadette Troop 60, of the J. Watson Bailey School recently completed some of the requirements for the Challenge of Social Dependability by entertaining members of Junior Troop 55 of First Presbyterian Church and Junior Troop 117, of No. 8 School. The girls had the use of the home economics room for their program which was planned and carried out by the Cadettes.

Included in the entertainment was a viewing of a film strip Cooky Wise — Cooky Perfect, courtesy of Betty Crocker film library, which gave many useful instructions on making the basic varieties of cookies, such as the bar cookie, roll, drop, refrigerator, press and mold. Each of the girls also received a cookie booklet and a booklet on making bread, courtesy of Fleishman's yeast.

Refreshments were served and the girls sang songs including The Growing Up Tree, popular new folk song written especially for Girl Scouts.

All three troops are members of the Kingston Uptown Neighborhood of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, an active participating member of Ulster County Community Chest.

Most Reject Plan

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Sixteen out of 18 speakers at a public hearing have rejected the city's plan for desegregating its elementary school system.

Both white speakers and Negro representatives of civil rights groups criticized the plan as "inadequate," "far-fetched," "deceitful" and "unrealistically expensive." About 200 attended the monthly school board meeting Thursday night.

It was the public's first chance to tell the board what it thought about the concept of a "children's academy," to which nearly all elementary school youngsters would be taken by bus daily.

Verdict Returned

The jury which heard testimony in Supreme Court before Justice Lawrence D. Cooke in an automobile negligence action brought by Barth O'Brien against Russell B. Clark and another, on Thursday returned a verdict to Richard Ricci in the sum of $1,000; John Ricci, father, $350 for medical bills and $250 for Barth O'Brien, owner of the car for damages William P. Curran appeared for plaintiff and Cook, Tucker and Dwyer was attorney of record for defendants.

Viet Toll Tops Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Viet Nam has claimed more American combat dead than three previous U.S. wars.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, 2,335 have been killed in Vietnamese combat, including 130 for the reporting week ended Monday. This compares with 2,260 combat deaths in the War of 1812, 1,733 in the Mexican War and 385 in the Span-American War.

The wounded roster increased by 489 to 11,574. Another 151 are reported missing and 31 are listed as captive.

Stamford Seeks N.Y. Exchange

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Mayor Thomas C. Mayers and the Stamford Chamber of Commerce are out for big game: they want the New York Stock Exchange to move to Stamford.

Officials of the exchange have been hinting for some time that if it becomes much more expensive to remain in New York City they may pick up and move somewhere else.

Adding to their dissatisfaction was the announcement by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York Thursday that he wants to bolster city revenues by taxing stock transfers.

Later in the day, Keith Funston, president of the exchange, said its directors plan to weigh again their decision to build a new $50 million headquarters in Manhattan.

That was enough for Mayers and the Chamber of Commerce people here. Mayers said he was going to suggest that the exchange officials think about building in Stamford's redevelopment district.

Arthur Norman, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, said many officers and members of the exchange live close to Stamford and thus would find it easier to get to work than they do now.

Norman said he will meet with Funston to talk things over.

Stamford isn't the only city trying to woo the exchange. Others that have put in bids include New Rochelle, N.Y., and Hoboken, N.J.

Blizzard Halts Midwest Activity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent weather — death-dealing tornadoes in Mississippi and Alabama and a blizzard which nearly paralyzed areas in four Midwestern states — highlighted the nation's weather pattern today.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol said tornadoes which struck at dusk Thursday across the central part of the state killed 57 persons, including about 20 in the area of Jackson, the state capital. Police said 411 persons were injured in Jackson and three rural counties. Twisters which hit west central Alabama killed one person and injured 11 others.

Damage Is High

Property damage in the tornado-stricken sections was expected to run into millions of dollars.

For the third day, blizzards, gripped the Dakotas, northern Minnesota and sections of Nebraska. One death was attributed to the severe stormy weather, and at least nine persons were missing in the Dakotas and Minnesota. The blizzards were descirbed as the worst in a half century in parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

In the blizzard belt, snow piled into such huge drifts even show plows were unable to operate. Early today wind gusts of 62 miles swept Jamestown, N.D., which had a snow covering of about 18 inches, with similar amounts in many other cities.

Worst in Dakotas

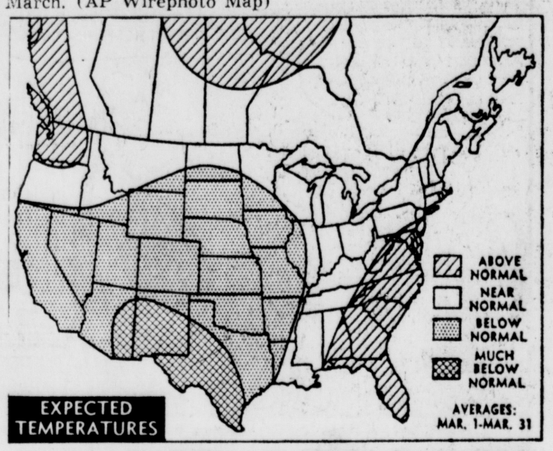

The worst of the storm was in southern and eastern North Dakota, southern and western South Dakota and northern Minnesota.

Colder air spread into the storm-swept regions with temperatures edging to near zero in some cities. The cold weather spread southward over the Rockies and intermountain region of the West.

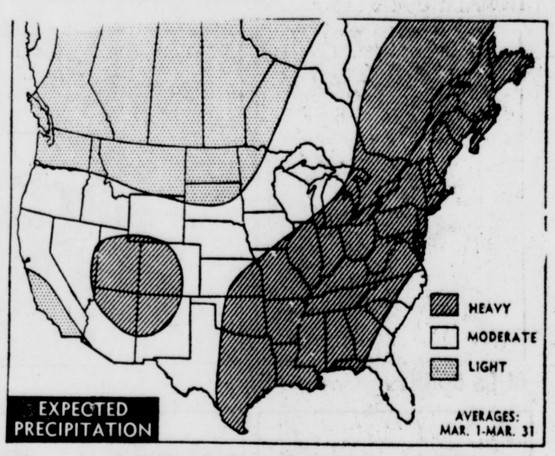

North and South Dakota, divided into two states in 1887, were admitted to the Union on the same day in 1889.

Mixed March

WEATHER FOR MARCH—Maps based on those prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau predict temperatures and precipitation for March. (AP Wirephoto Map)

The Mississippi Valley is the dividing line for March temperatures, with normal to above marks prevailing to the east while most of the nation to the west is in for colder than usual weather.

Heavy precipitation is the outlook from central Texas to the Great Lakes and east while the spotty picture for the rest of the country ranges from below to above normal.

Warmer Air Due Early Next Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts for Upstate New York, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from Saturday through Wednesday:

Normal early March temperatures are expected. It will turn rather cool over the weekend and become warmer early next week.

Rain or showers changing to snow flurries are expected over the weekend. Fair chance of some rain or snow developing again by about Tuesday or Wednesday. Total average precipitation in water content will be one half inch or more.

Daytime highs will be in the 40s and low 50s at the beginning, dropping to the 30s then rising again by late in the period to the 40s.

Nighttime lows will be about freezing at the beginning, dropping to the teens and 20s early in the period and rising to the 20s or low 30s early next week.

Rochester Town GOP Has Annual Lincoln Dinner

The annual Town of Rochester Lincoln Day gala was held last week at Rubin's Maple View Hotel, Kerhonkson.

A large and enthusiastic audience was present to hear Alexander Aldrich, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the 28th Congressional District.

Supervisor Franklin Kelder also spoke briefly and the master of ceremonies for the evening was Philip Davis, chairman of the Town of Rochester Republican Committee.

Romeo Muller, president of the Town of Rochester Republican Club, which sponsored the event, expressed his appreciation to everyone who served on the committees and helped to make the gala a success.

The evening had begun with a buffet supper and ended with dancing to music of Charles Cross and his orchestra.

Iraq Aids JFK Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of Iraq has donated $10,000 to the construction fund for the John Fitzgerald Kennedy library to be built at Cambridge, Mass.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., accepted the check Thursday from Ambassador Nasir Hani in a brief ceremony in the senator's office.

The brother of the late President said contributions for the library now total $1.2 million.

Mt. Kennedy, Canadian mountain named for President John F. Kennedy, rises 13,905 feet above sea level.

UCCC to Offer New Study Plan

A unique program of general studies leading to an associate degree will be introduced by Ulster County Community College in September, 1966.

The program has been approved by the board of trustees of the local college, by the board of trustees of the State University of New York and has been registered with the New York State Department of Education. Dr. John J. Patton, chairman of the Humanities Division at the College, will serve as coordinator of the new curriculum.

The general studies curriculum is provided for those who wish to become better-rounded, more knowledgeable, and therefore more useful citizens in the community. The program may be taken merely for the purposes of personal enrichment of one's background and general knowledge. The person who completes the program with this aim in mind will enjoy the additional benefit of an associate degree for successful completion of two years of college-level work.

Program Is Flexible

Or the program may be taken by those who wish to make themselves more eligible as prospects for employment. These two years of general college study will place the graduate at an advantage in the employment market. If he wishes, he may use his free elective hours for acquiring a specific vocational skill such as typing or accounting or increasing a specific knowledge for use on the job such as biological science or technical writing.

Finally, the general studies program would be useful to the student who wants two years of college but who would prefer not to commit himself to a specialized field or not to participate in a program aimed at transfer to a four-year college. He will enjoy a rich and interesting college experience that will prove helpful in whatever he chooses to do in the future.

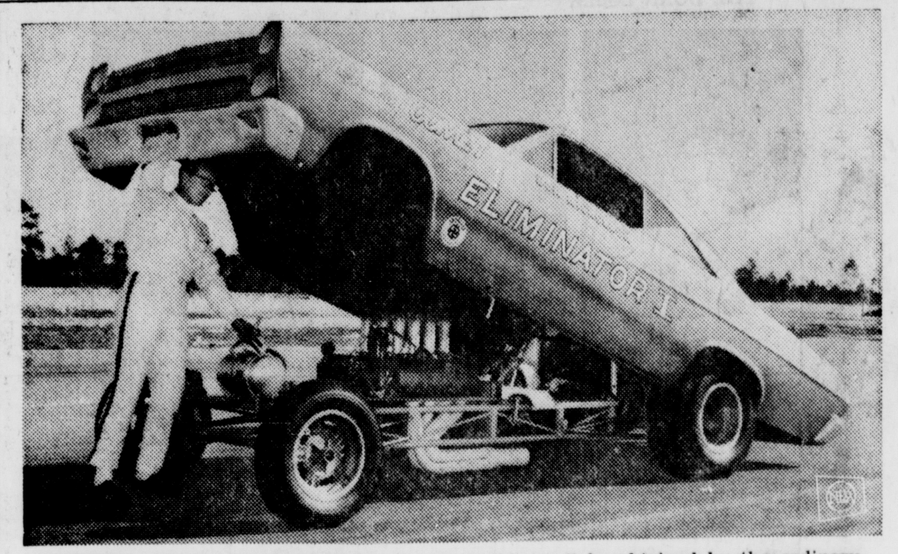

The general studies curriculum will offer the student a full two-semester course in improving his skills in writing and speaking. It will also provide valuable background in the thought and values of civilization, especially in modern times. It will acquaint him with important aspects of the business world as they affect him in his everyday experience. The program will also allow him to learn about basic ideas and problems in the sciences and mathematics, two fields of great importance in the new space age. General studies will enrich him by an introduction to the cultural aspects of society—art, music and literature—and a study of problems in the family and in society.

Offers Wide Variety

This unique new offering at the local community college differs from many existing general studies programs at other institutions wherein students select traditional liberal arts courses in some particular arrangement to develop a personal plan. The general studies program at UCCC, however, offers the student an opportunity to explore in a wide variety of areas and approches the various academic disciplines in a personal and meaningful manner. Interdevelopmental courses are offered, and students will be exposed to new and enriching educational experiences.

The program is particularly appropriate for those students who desire to explore various areas of human knowledge and will be of very special interest to housewives and mothers who seek two years of education for general self-fulfillment, but who do not necessarily plan to continue for the Baccalaureate Degree.

Students interested in this unique educational opportunity may contact the Ulster County Community College Admissions Office.

Guatemala Ready For Sunday Vote, Warning Sounded

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — A bitter election campaign is drawing to a close in Guatemala with two of the three presidential candidates warning that "another Santo Domingo" could develop.

In the election on Sunday Guatemalans also will elect a vice president, 54 members of the National Assembly and more than 300 mayors and municipal councils.

The presidential candidates are two military men generally described as rightists and a former dean of the San Carlos University law school who is considered a moderate leftist.

Col. Juan de Dios Aguilar, 54, of the new Institutional Democratic party is considered the government's candidate. The government denies backing Aguilar, but the other candidates insist that its chief, Col. Enrique Peralta Azurdia, is making every effort to impose Aguilar on the country.

Aguilar is an engineer who resigned as general manager of the National Electrification Institute to run.

The other military candidate is Col. Miguel Angel Ponciano, 52, of the National Liberation Movement, who resigned as chief of the army general staff to become a candidate.
